FIND "DRY" BADGES IN RAID

"Chick" Dillon Among Prisoners Taken in Back Bay Mystery House

Two Federal prohibition badges were seized by the police in a raid on a Mountfort street apartment today. Four men were arrested for intoxication.

Two other men escaped through windows.

Thirteen gallons of alcohol and four quarts of White Horse whiskey were seized.

It was reported, too, that the police found in the apartment a warrant for the arrest of some person on a charge of liquor violation.

One of the badges was found in the apartment, the other on the floor of the patrol wagon.

The men arrested gave their names as John J. Benton, Arthur Williams, Thomas Donnelly and James Ryan. They were charged with intoxication.

To Judge Hayden in Roxbury court Benton said his right name was John F. Dillon of No. 210 Columbia street, Cambridge. He was fined $5.

This is the same name as that of "Chick" Dillon, who was acquitted of the murder of Patrolman Charles walls and door of the kitchen and room as maps charting the course of police vengeance today.

Two plates are also marked by soiled fingers. One of these plates held part of the lemon pie and the other was container of remnants of a chicken. The murderer ate, then dealt death with an axe, hammer or club.

POLICE FOLLOW CLEW.

At best, the finger prints are but flimsy material to complete a whole cloth story which will lead to the murderer's arrest, but they were seized avidly by detectives and the Newport police, who to date have been thwarted completely by the absolute lack of followable leads to track the killer.

No especial significance was attached to the marks as possible clues until a formal autopsy of the victims' bodies had been held. This examination showed that neither McLeish nor his wife had partaken of food for hours before their deaths.

The formal autopsy dissipated a theory, held by some, that the young man and his wife were killed by the fall of burning timber. An examination of the lungs of Mrs. McLeish showed that there was no smoke in these organs, a fact which supported the first impression that she met her death by being struck with a heavy blunt instrument and died before the fire had gained much headway.

A small amount of smoke was found in the lungs of her husband, but there was not enough to have caused suffocation. He was alive when firemen arrived and died of his wounds on the way to the hospital.

And so far not a possible motive has appeared as plausible to the police. Chief of Police John F. Tobin has worked night and day on the crime and he admits he is completely baffled. The discovery of the finger smudges and the evidence that the murderer had eaten on the McLeish pantry raises the possibility that he might have been heard while stealing his meal, and that he fought and killed when apprehended. This theory has but few holders, but those who propound it advance arguments for its likelihood.

Perhaps, they say, the murderer aroused one or the other at his victims by his noise downstairs. Perhaps McLeish rushed downstairs, but was forced back to his bedroom by his slayer. They might have fought, say the theorizers, and after leaving McLeish for dead, the slayer of Mrs. McLeish to conceal his identity might have cudgeled out the brains and leave no witness to his murder of her husband.

The theory a maniac was the slayer has been practically abandoned.

But these theories avail little in the actual apprehension of the criminal, as the police point out.

Today the police are working on the opinion that the perpetrator of the deed was familiar with the habits of the two and knew the layout of the lodge. The fact that all doors and windows were locked when firemen arrived leads to the belief that the slayer was hidden in the house when the couple went to bed, awaiting a favorable opportunity to kill them.

The search for the death weapon was continued today. While police and firemen delved into the charred debris in the house, other police and private detectives made a thorough search through the Flint[illegible] and adjacent estates. It is thought unlikely that the murderer proceeded far on his road to escape in possession of the gory weapon.

A thorough checking up of the movements of the couple in the few hours preceding the murder has revealed that they left a downtown picture house about 10:40 p. m. Saturday. They boarded an electric car from Washington square and alighted at Harrison and Claflin avenues.

The conductor says he saw them alight and walk arm-in-arm toward their home. He was the last the police have found, to see them alive.

Today's investigation included also a check-up of movements of every man attached to Fort Adams who was away from the post over the week-end. Officers of the post so far have been able to give a clean bill to every man off duty at the time of the crime.

A number of semi-demented persons have come under police surveillance and have been questioned. One of these, a man with "peeping-tom" proclivities, who has given the officials some bother in the past, was quizzed at length. He gave an alibi.

THREE POSES OF ACCUSED SLAYER

JESSE MURPHY ON TRIAL IN SUPERIOR COURT

The assistant district attorney outlined the government's case against the alleged slayer of two A. and P. store managers and the jury was to visit the scene of the murders.

MURPHY FIRED FATAL SHOT, STATE SAYS

Jesse Murphy was charged with firing the shot that killed Manager Edward T. Foley of the Atlantic & Pacific Tea Store at No. 36 Blue Hill avenue on February 17, 1917, by Assistant District Attorney Henry P. Fielding at Murphy's trial for double murder today.

Fielding said Murphy was one of two men who invaded the Blue Hill avenue store, and evidence would be introduced to show Murphy was one of three men who figured in the murder of Ordway R. Hall, manager of the Atlantic & Pacific Tea Store on Washington street, Dorchester, four nights later.

In that case, Fielding said, Murphy held the door open while one of the other men killed Hall.

Attorney Fielding's accusation was a surprise to the defence. He outlined the case against Murphy after the jury returned from a view of the murder scenes.

"The prosecution will offer evidence," said Attorney Fielding, "that a face was seen pressed close to the window of the Blue Hill avenue store before two strange young men entered between 9:30 and 10 p. m. on February 17.

"Witnesses will be introduced who saw the face at the window. A woman customer, Mrs. Arnold, and two boys, were in the store at the time.

"We will show that the intruders had revolvers and that Jesse Murphy fired the shot that killed Manager Foley. We will also show that three men entered the Washington street store where Mr. Hall was manager and that Jesse Murphy was seen at the door with his foot holding it open while the two others held up Hall and one of them shot him."

WANTS JARDINE OUSTED.

Attorney Sheehan then presented a petition to Judge Leggat asking the appointment of Jardine as temporary guardian of Dorothy Gordon be revoked on the ground that Jardine cannot legally be appointed her guardian.

He pointed out that the law says no one but a party at interest, an overseer of the poor, a selectman or a Mayor can be appointed temporary guardian of an insane person. Judge Leggat said he would issue a notice.

Shot Fired at U. S. Liaison Officer

Aix-La-Chapelle investigation today revealed that an American liaison officer was shot at on the street here, but was uninjured.

The officer is Captain Hans Minuth, who had been detached from the American Forces of Occupation at Coblenz to act as liaison officer. An unknown person discharged a revolver in the direction of Captain Minuth, but the shot went wild.

U. S. Troops to Start for Home Tomorrow

Coblenz, Jan. 23 (By International News Service).—The American flag, which had floated above the great German mountain fortress of Ehrenbreitein for four years, will be hauled down at noon tomorrow and immediately the United States army of occupation on the Rhine will leave for Antwerp to sail homeward on the transport St. Mihiel.

French troops will form a guard of honor as the Americans depart.

Upon arrival of the troops in the United States, all married men under the rank of staff sergeant will be honorably discharged unless the circumstances are exceptional.

There is deep mourning among the German population who have become greatly attached to the doughboys during their long stay here.

British Commander Ordered to Be Neutral

London, Jan. 23. (By International News Service Radio).—General Godley, commander of the British army of occupation at Cologne, has been instructed not to interfere with nor to assist the French in arresting Germans in the areas held by British troops, the Foreign Office announced this afternoon.

Former Premier Lloyd George's press organ, the Chronicle, declared today the British army of occupation must be withdrawn from the Rhine or control the Cologne area without interference from the outside.

Ruhr Magnates' Trial Set for Tomorrow

Mayence, Jan. 23 (By The Associated Press).—The trial of Fritz Tuyssen and the five other industrial magnates arrested in the Ruhr, set for today, has been postponed until 9 o'clock tomorrow morning. It is understood that Dr. Frederick Grimm, attorney for the men accused of refusing to obey the orders of the French, has pleaded lack of jurisdiction and incompetence of the French court.

Dr. Grimm is reported to have asked that the case be referred to the Permanent Court of International Justice at The Hague.

Patriotism-Hunger Money Gently Dropping Lord Burnham Is Here A French Flying Fort

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1923, Star Co.

PATRIOTISM AND hatred of a foreign foe are powerful. Hunger is powerful. German workmen under French control may find themselves obliged to choose between the patriotic mind and the full stomach. The French guarantee plenty to eat for those who work and dig the coal to be sent to France. Those that don't work must look out for themselves. Not such an easy choice when a man has hungry children. You face a bayonet only once or twice. Hunger you must face every day. It gets tiresome.

THE FRENCH franc yesterday dropped 18 points to 6.33; the Belgian franc dropped 18 points to 5.73; German marks fell a little nearer to the vanishing point. Lloyd George's statement that Belgian and French francs and the German marks are tied up together, and will rise or fall together, is evidently the opinion of cold-blooded speculators that gamble in foreign exchange.

LORD BURNHAM, an able Englishman, third generation in his family to own the powerful and profitable London Daily Telegraph, is in the United States. He describes Europe's future quite well, in the words of a "Provincial Mayor," who said:

"The future of the world is very dark and obscene."

THE UNITED STATES pays sixty gentlemen to help one individual "observe" what is going on in Europe's Reparations Commission, which is none of our business. We shan't get the money. We could spend our money better observing what the French are doing in preparations for air fighting.

The latest French fighting airship is made entirely of steel, weighs 20,000 pounds and, in addition to a battery of ordinary machine guns, carries one of the famous French "75" fi-ld guns, with a supply of fifty shells.

THAT is a flying fort that, instead of remaining stationary, to be fired at, can fly through the air at one hundred miles an hour, go wherever destruction is desired, and change the whole of war. Such a plane would be worth more than the patched-up battleships for which our navy asks six and a half millions in repairs. Such an air battleship wouldn't cost one-quarter of six and a half millions, or one-half of the quarter, if made apart from "patriotic graft."

A PUBLIC mass meeting in Vienna demands expulsion of all Jews because they occupy "dominant positions in the economic life, art, the stage and the press."

How did they GET these dominant economic positions? By working for them. The expulsionist gentlemen should remember. Dominant positions will always go to those that work for them. Expulsions won't prevent it.

DIFFERENT COUNTRIES are having different troubles. On the other side of the earth New Zealand worries about the deer. Years ago Englishmen, imported one hundred and eleven that they might have the pleasure of shooting them and their descendants later. The deer increased almost like rabbits—now number hundreds of thousands and eat the crops. New Zealand, as you know, being separated from the great continents in very early geological times, has its own queer collection of animals, marsupial creatures, with no ferocious devouring animals. Hence the rapid breeding.

ON OUR side of earth, in Scotland, along the Clyde, where ships are built, is another trouble. Working people have stopped paying rent. Not a penny will they pay, and as they can't all be dispossessed, they stay in their dwellings. Landlords in turn have stopped paying taxes. Bolshevist ideas as to property spread easily.

SIR WILLIAM TRELCAR, once Lord Mayor of London, goes back to selling carpets in his little store at the age of eighty, having refused an opportunity to amass great wealth. He says, "My rich friends become melancholy as soon as they become millionaires."

Something in that. Money is a worry. But for real melancholy, Sir William ought to investigate

MANY KISSES IN RAWLINSON'S LOVE LETTERS

By International News Service.

Los Angeles, Jan. 23.—Court fans will be forced to wait thirty days for the next reel of the love story of Dorothy Clark, seventeen-year-old dancer, and Herbert Rawlinson, film star, as told in the $200,000 suit brought by the dancer, who alleges Rawlinson attacked her when she was fourteen.

The case has been adjourned for that period, due to illness of the girl's mother, Mrs. Ethel Clark.

The adjournment came in the midst of the story of the girl on the stand. Miss Clark had testified regarding the actor's attentions to her, beginning when she went to his studio to have him autograph a picture.

Rawlinson contends his interest was merely friendly and to gain the girl an entrance in films. Dozens of love letters which Rawlinson was alleged to have written to Miss Clark in 1918, when she was thirteen years old, were read to the jury.

"My own darling Dora by" was the way most of them began.

Following is the way some of the letters ended:

"Always yours, Herb."

"Bye bye, my own sweet little girl."

"Take care of your dear self."

"Lots of love and kisses."

"From Herb."

"Here is a great, big, long kiss, sir."

The last letter, written by Rawlinson in New York and received by her in Los Angeles before her Eastern trip, carries the full stream of Rawlinson's ardor and, in addition, would seem to indicate both jealousy and caution.

"My Own Dear Darling Do," he wrote. "I didn't suspect you of doing wrong. Has he made love to you or invited you to his apartment? Wire me how much money you will need to come to New York. Our thoughts are in unison. For both our sakes please destroy this letter."

"To whom did Mr. Rawlinson refer in that letter?" asked Attorney Lorin Andrews, who conducted Miss Clark's examination.

"Oh, that was a Mr. Bennett," she said.

"Were you in love with him?"

"Oh, not at all. He expected to place me in a company. Just business relations."

New York, Jan. 23.—"Flo" Leeds of Stillman case notoriety, is Europe-bound aboard the transatlantic liner Homeric today, leaving behind her this unanswered question:

Has the mad infatuation between the former chorus girl and wealthy James A. Stillman grown cold?

And, if so, is "Flo" putting the ocean between herself and the ex-president of the National City Bank in a last desperate hope that "absence makes the heart grow fonder" and that the flame of love will be rekindled?

Or is there a new angle? Has Stillman been succeeded in the fervorish affections of the Manhattan beauty by another man, equally powerful, equally rich, possibly of greater personal charm than Stillman?

SAILS WITHOUT SON.

While these questions remain to be answered and while "Flo" couples one of the most costly suites on the stately Homeric, she leaves behind, in care of a nurse, her high-spirited, four-year-old boy of whom Stillman is reputed to be the father.

Visible signs of her affluence in Manhattan include:

Luxurious limousine.

Japanese butler and wife.

Maid and nurse.

MYSTERY IN DEPARTURE.

There has been much question as to where Stillman has been since his wife, Mrs. Anne Urquinarr Stillman, won her fight to legitimatize the birth of Baby Guy Stillman over Stillman's assertions that the father of Guy is Fred Beauvais, the Indian guide.

Whether the Stillman case and its disclosures made any difference between Flo Leeds and Stillman there seems to have been no abatement in "Flo's" high plane of living.

The trunks which she had sent aboard the Homeric are filled with latest offerings of Fifth avenue's smartest modistes, furriers and milliners. These were purchased on some of her characteristic shopping trips just before she sailed.

"Flo's" stateroom was taken under the name of Mrs. K. Lincoln. But she was not at all disturbed when her identity was learned.

While it has been club and tea table gossip that "Flo" and Stillman had broken she would not discuss Stillman or his affairs or the Stillman case.

STILLMAN KEEPS AWAY.

At the Park avenue apartment it is said that for the past two months "Flo" has lived very quietly, going out only two evenings and returning early.

In this period she has received no visits from Stillman, nor have any letters or other messages from him arrived, so far as known.

N. E. 'DOPE' TRAFFIC SPREADS

Many Victims of Pedlars Are Under Twenty-Five Years of Age

By WINIFRED BLACK.

"No epidemic. Only a community of 5,000 normal people, farmers of the Kentucky hills who used 110,044 grains of morphine in eighteen months.

"Two hundred ounces of morphine sold by a Main street druggist in a town of 5,000 inhabitants. In 1921, the Bellevue and allied hospitals to which all of New York's accidents and emergency cases go used only 92¾ ounces for the treatment of 64,183 patients. And the twenty-seven principal hospitals of Philadelphia absorbed only ninety ounces of morphine.

"That is about one-third of the amount absorbed by the men, women and children of Summerset, Ky.

"And you can match the story of Summerset in every State in the Union."

That's what Sidney Howard says in Hearst's Magazine.

UTTERLY ENSLAVED.

How the addicts stare and twitch and stammer when they are by accident without it for awhile. How utterly besotted and bemused and enslaved they are and how they look the part, down to the last slavering, glaring minute.

The Chinese bring in the stuff, the Japanese bring it in—they never use it themselves—the Japanese—they are far too clever for that, but they sell it and make fortunes in it.

The East Indians bring it in, in their turbans. The Mexicans bring in their own strange "dope" marihuana—they smoke this in cigarettes—and mother and father back there in the big cool house with the living porch, and the sleeping porch, and the breakfast patio, and the fountains, and the gardens and the orchards, wondering what in the world has come over son that he seems so strange and listless and half dead half the time, and so wild and nervous and erratic the rest of the time.

Winifred Black.

DOPE IN NEW ENGLAND.

It is no chooser of localities—the "dope" ring.

Sell it where you can and if there are no customers where you are make customers—that's the plan.

Sober, staid, New England—there's dope there.

The little villages in Massachusetts, in Maine and Vermont are beginning to harbor stranger castaways than those brought in by the late old sea captains of the past generation.

Upon the lonely farms on the bleak hillsides—oh, yes; the "dope" has found refuge there, too.

Ask the New England narcotic officers, they'll tell you stories that will make the tales of the Salem witches seem pale figments of a distorted imagination.

The Gulf States, New Orleans, Galveston, Fort Worth, Natchez—what you can learn about the spread of the "dope" evil in any one of these places in just one little week would horrify and astound you.

MANY VICTIMS YOUNG.

And the terrifying thing about it all is that the victims are so young, six out of ten of them are under twenty-five and eight out of ten are under twenty.

It is a holocaust of youth—the whole, dreadful, terrifying business.

How long are we going to sit calmly by and watch it go on?

PATROLMAN IN HEROIC RESCUE

Aged Woman Gets Her Garret Home Afire as She Lights Candles to Obtain Heat

Miss Catherine Thompson, described by the police as "the poorest woman in the city," would have lost even what little life does hold for her only for the quickness and courage of Patrolman Dennis F. Guthrie today. She is sixty-two years old.

Candles which she had lighted in her garret room at No. 28 Fayette street South find in hopes of a flicker of heat, set fire to the flooring. Miss Thompson was unaware of the blaze when Patrolman Guthrie ran up three flights, smashed in the garret door and carried her out. She is at City Hospital.

Miss Catherine Thompson

Miss Thompson was once employed as cook in wealthy Boston families. She has prepared many an elaborate feast for the enjoyment of Back Bay dinner gatherings.

POVERTY IS PATHETIC.

In those days the kitchens and storerooms over which she ruled were liberally stocked. There was plenty for the family and plenty for the cook, too.

In contrast today Miss Thompson is barely able to keep body and soul together. She worked at Morgan Memorial until recently, but was forced, on account of foot trouble, to quit.

She had the use of the attic room rent free through the kindness of Mrs. Anna Reardon, first floor tenant, who often has given Miss Thompson food.

She owns an old, rusted spring, with an old overcoat for mattress and another overcoat for covering.

IS WITHOUT RELATIVES.

All her personal property, a call bell, a broken mirror and one or two other things, were in a small bag.

At City Hospital the tale of poverty and loneliness was emphasized by the entry specifying any relatives or friends. The answer written in the space was:

"None."

WOMAN OF 80 DIES IN FIRE IN MALDEN

Mrs. Eliza J. McAllister, eighty years old, was burned to death today when fire destroyed her home at No. 15 Norwood place, Malden.

Her body was found by her son George, city messenger of Malden, burned to a crisp.

It is believed she dropped an oil lamp while in the pantry and was sprayed with burning oil when the lamp exploded. She had been complaining of slight illness for some time, and her son believes she arose early today to go to the pantry for medicine and dropped the lamp.

She lived alone in the house, a 2½ story wooden dwelling.

The fire was discovered by Jack Fox of No. 13 Salem place. He called Mrs. McAllister's son, Edwin, who lives a few doors from his mother.

When firemen arrived the house was a mass of flames. Nothing but walls remained when the flames were extinguished. George McAllister rushed through the smoldering wreckage and found his mother's body huddled on the floor of what had been the pantry.

Fire Captain Arthur Miller received a badly bruised shoulder when struck by a piece of piping.

occupying the spotlight. State authorities intended to add to their published list of "hooded mob" members through new identifications from the witness stand at the open hearing. A number of witnesses summoned for yesterday's session failed to attend owing to the almost impossible condition of Parish roads.

The continued silence of Tregerstrom has worried State authorities. Two members of the Attorney-General's staff openly declared their belief that he had been murdered.

The theory of foul play was also shared by Federal agents.

The boy's immediate family, however, announced they thought him alive. Their belief was based on a letter received by Clarence Tregerstrom, a brother, January 13.

FEAR MISSING KLAN WITNESS MURDERED

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON, International News Service.

Courthouse, Bastrop, La., Jan. 23.—A spectacular search for Harold T. Tregerstrom, kidnaped "mystery" witness, today overshadowed outrages in Morehouse Parish.

While rumors persist that Tregerstrom has met the same fate as he tell Walt Dabbs and Thomas F. Richards at the hands of a "hooded mob," last August, State authorities redoubled their efforts to find him "dead or alive."

A warrant was issued for the missing youth's arrest on the technical charge of being a "material witness" as a means of aiding the search.

A midnight march by State cavalry into the backwoods to raid two homes suspected of having sheltered the missing witness added a touch of melodrama to the quest. The raiders rode at breakneck speed after a "hot tip" had been received by the Attorney-General's office.

The two dwellings, one occupied by Henry Jones, bosom friend of Tregerstrom, and the other by Jones' father, were thoroughly searched, but no trace of the missing youth was found.

LEAPED TO ESCAPE ATTACK, SAYS GIRL

Springfield, Jan. 23.—Miss Alicia Ennis absolved Panos Paglas of all blame for her leap from a hotel window on New Year's Eve, 1921, when she took the stand in court today as a witness in the $25,000 damage suit brought by Paglas against Attorney Gordon Ireland for false arrest.

Paglas was arrested at the instigation of Ireland. Paglas says, because of the circumstances connected with Miss Ennis' jump and period in a hospital, but when she took the stand she declared she had leaped because a man, not Paglas, had attempted to attack her.

ACTRESS TELLS SECRET

Tells How to Darken Gray Hair With Barbo Compound

Joicey Williams, the well-known American actress, recently made the following statement about gray hair and how to darken it, with a home-made mixture.

"Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home that will gradually darken gray, streaked or faded hair, and make it soft and glossy. In a half-pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and ½ ounce of glycerine.

These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger. It does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off."

A BLEMISHED SKIN QUICKLY HEALED BY THIS SULPHUR

Face, Neck and Arms Quickly Made Clear By Mentho-Sulphur.

Mentho-Sulphur, a pleasant cream, will soothe and heal skin that is irritated or broken out with eczema; that is covered with ugly rash or pimples, or is rough or dry. Nothing subdues fiery skin eruptions so quickly, says a noted skin specialist.

The moment this sulphur preparation is applied the itching stops and after two or three applications, the eczema is gone and the skin is delightfully clear and smooth. Sulphur is so precious as a skin remedy because it destroys the parasites that cause the burning, itching or disfigurement. Mentho-Sulphur always heals eczema right up.

Cuticura Quickly Relieves Irritated Skins

Bathe with Cuticura Soap and hot water to free the pores of impurities, dry lightly and apply Cuticura Ointment to soothe and heal. Cuticura Talcum is ideal for powdering and perfuming.

"HOW ARE YOU FEELING TODAY?"

YOU can answer, "I'm feeling fine, thank you," if you keep your blood pure and your system toned up so that the germs which cause those colds and other winter ills will be powerless to attack you.

Gude's Pepto-Mangan, that famous old tonic and blood enricher, will fortify your system and give you strength to withstand the chilling blasts and sudden changes of winter.

Your druggist has it, in both liquid and tablet form.

DIMPLED KNEES IN ABUNDANCE AT COLONIAL

By NICHOLAS YOUNG.

There was plenty of good, reliable Scotch at the Colonial last evening—enough, at any rate, to carry the dimpled knees of "The Bunch and Judy" beyond the range of the keen and censorous eyes of Mr. Casey of City Hall, who is more than likely to insist upon virtuous aliken veneer for the dancing legs of musical entertainment. It was evident that the curse of the naked knee is no curse at all when associated in an artistic way with plaids and kilties. Anyway, who ever heard of a lovely Scottish lassie of the drama annoying herself with a union suit?

FOUR FEATURED PLAYERS.

In "The Bunch and Judy" you were shown how far an ambitious, extravagant producer could travel in musical comedy with only two pairs of featured players as a foundation for his labors. With the talents of the Dooleys and the Astaires to support him Charles Dillingham has created a musical play that appeals both to your artistic sense and to your bump of humor. A play within a play, luxuriously costumed and staged to a degree not often seen even in these wild days of stage effect and, with melodies well beyond the average in their ability to catch your ear, you left the theatre with one vivid impression—that you had spent the evening with the Dooleys and the Astaires.

DOOLEYS DELIGHT.

From Ray and Johnny Dooley you gather new delights in rough and fumble comedy. They tossed you about on waves of fun that had no particular bearing on "The Bunch and Judy," but which, nevertheless, knocked your dignity into a cocked hat. Stage falls are amusing or wearisome, according to the art with which they are undertaken. Johnny Dooley can fall harder, oftener and funnier than any comedian that has crossed our line of vision for months. The art of the Dooleys may have its limitations, but it is good tonic for dull moments—it surely made you forget other important events in "The Bunch and Judy."

GREAT DANCING ACT.

Out of vaudeville and into the gaiety of a Broadway production came the Astaires. Fred and Adele, who danced in a fashion that once more is confirmed Mr. Dillingham's judgment. With nothing but feet to lend them, these two animated youngsters gave you a glimpse of something new in modern dancing. Their one big number, "How Do You Do, Katinka," was the hit of the show—ten minutes of dancing that made the entire evening well spent. Three character dances by Grace Hayes also caught the fancy of the audience.

"The Bunch and Judy" as a musical play, was pretentious in detail, but Johnny Dooley falling over chairs and the Astaires in brilliant dancing numbers were the things you remembered on the way home.

Week's Features

MODERN AND BEACON—The feature pictures at the Modern and Beacon this week are Wesley (Freckles) Barry in "Heroes of the Street," and Dustin Farnum in "Three Who Paid." The first instalment of a new "Leather Pusher" series is also being shown.

* * *

GLOBE—For the first three days of this week at the Globe "Fool's Wives" and Virginia Lee in "The Road to Arcady" are being shown. The bill changes on Thursday.

* * *

—BOSTON—Booth Tarkington's "The Flirt" is the feature film at the Boston this week. There is also a lively vaudeville program with several smart features.

* * *

OLYMPIA AND CAPITOL—Marion Davies in "When Knighthood Was in Flower" is the feature attraction at the Olympia and Capitol Theatres this week.

* * *

CENTRAL SQUARE—"Peg O' My Heart," with Laurette Taylor, is being shown at the Central Square Theatre for three days. The bill will be changed on Thursday.

* * *

* * *

STRAND—For the first three days of the week "A Little Child Shall Lead Them" is the feature at the Strand. There will be a new program on Thursday.

* * *

BOWDOIN SQUARE—"Over the Hill" and Bert Lytell in "The Face Between" are the two film features of the week at the Bowdoin.

* * *

* * *

LANCASTER—George Arliss in "The Man Who Played God," and "Ebb Tide," are the early week features at the Lancaster. There will be a complete change of bill on Thursday.

* * *

CODMAN SQUARE—"Thorns and Orange Blossoms" is the three-day film feature at the Codman Square Theatre. "Oliver Twist" will be shown on Thursday.

SCENE FROM "THE BUNCH AND JUDY"

KEITH'S BILL FULL OF GOOD ACTS

Yvette Rugel, the diminutive prima donna, and Gladys Clark and Henry Bergman share the honors at B. F. Keith's Theatre this week.

Yvette is a fascinating little creature who has a way of winning her audience with her smile as well as her voice.

Clark and Bergman prove themselves a pair of as capable entertainers as there are on the vaudeville stage. "Sendmary Mary" is a pleading vehicle for them.

B. C. Hilliam, composer of "Buddies," was an added attraction. Billy Sharp and Company with their 20th Century Revue is a pleasing feature on a good bill. George Rockwell and Al Fox are funny. Rupert Ingalese, juggler; Bob Anderson's polo pony; Keiam and O'Dare; Beige and Gupee and the usual pictures complete an excellent entertainment.

"IT'S A BOY!" AT THE SOMERVILLE

William Anthony McGuire's comedy, "It's a Boy," was presented at the Somerville Theatre Monday. The play is one that is remarkably true to life. There are several exacting roles in which the members of the company gave excellent interpretations. Especially capable was the work of Harry Bond as the young husband, and of Ann Hamilton as his wife. Mrs. George A. Hibbard was given a fine reception, and others who contributed good support were Peggy Shaw, Philip Sheffield, Halbert Brown, Joseph Granby and Rose Mary Hilton.

Coming Events

Ed Wynn in "The Perfect Fool" is announced as the attraction at the Colonial beginning February 5.

Irene Bordoni, in "The French Doll," will come to the Tremont on Monday, February 5.

"Blossom Time" will be the attraction at the Boston Opera House beginning February 12.

MUSICAL REVUE AT THE GAYETY

"Rockets" whizzed into the Gayety Theatre for a double display of fun, frolic and music. The musical revue offered by the "Rockets" has a regular old home week flavor because three of the principals, Harry "Dutch" Ward, the laughable German comedian; Will H. Cohen, who plays a Hebrew character, and Kitty Gleason, the handsome prima donna, are Bostonians. The entrance of each of these three brought particular strong applause as a bit of extra welcome from friends in the home city.

Joe Hurtig, owner of the show, lionizing George White's "Scandals of 1921," gave it new costumes, added new features and formed a revue that is full of life.

The Dutch and Hebrew dialects of Ward and Cohen enriched the comedy scenes and Rosa Mercedes did a song and dance numbers with grace. Cecil Manners, the ingenue, and Ed Lowrie were seen in a smart specialty.

'FROLICS OF 1922' SEEN AT MAJESTIC

Something new in the way of comedy was offered to the patrons of the Majestic Theatre in the "Frolics of 1922," featuring Herman Timberg, versatile comedian and song writer. A beauty chorus sings and dances well.

The first part of the performance was given over to a series of vaudeville acts. In the prologue each of the girls imitates some well known footlight star. Hattie Darling and Jammie Timberg scored a well-deserved hit.

"An Apache Love Affair" and a short vaudeville playlet written and staged by Herman Timberg were well worth seeing. Many new steps were introduced by Harry Pauleen and Else, who gave clever imitations of the Apache dances.

Herman Timberg introduced a few of his recent song hits. Nat Nazarro, assisted by Buck and Bubbles, two clever colored performers, closed the vaudeville. The revue itself is full of clean comedy, snappy music and funny jokes.

'BAD MAN' WELL PLAYED AT ST. JAMES

"The Bad Man," played to a crowded house at the St. James Theatre, is a drama of laughs and thrills. It is full of intensely dramatic situations punctuated by pistol shots and saved by a continuous strain of humor.

Walter Gilbert as Pancho Lopez, the bad man, leaves nothing to be desired in his masterful portrayal of the evil bandit from whom eventually all good comes.

The sympathy of the audience is with Lucia Pell, played by Adelyn Rasmussen, who is the cause of all the complications, and who, until the final drop of the curtain, is uncertain about her fate.

Edward Darney, as Lucia's brutal husband, and the real bad man of the play, meets a deserving end, leaving Houston Richards, who takes the part of Gilbert Jones, free to marry Lucia without the necessity of waiting for a divorce.

LIBERTY THEATRE HAS OPENING

Another photo playhouse was added to Dorchester's already long list of theatres when the new Liberty Theatre at Blue Hill avenue and Charlotte street had its official opening. The house seats about 1,000 persons. It is owned and managed by William London.

Plays Remaining

TREMONT—"Molly Darling" is now on its two final weeks in Boston. Jack Donahue and Mary Milburn are the featured players.

SHUBERT—"The Passing Show of 1922" continues at the Shubert, with Willie and Eugene Howard dispensing their own brand of fun.

HOLLIS—"Lightnin'" has entered upon another week of prosperity at the Hollis. It's a sure-fire entertainment.

PLYMOUTH—"Just Married," the rollicking deep sea going farce, remains at the Plymouth, with Vivian Martin and Lynne Overman in the leading roles.

SELWYN—Pauline Frederick continues to draw enthusiastic audiences to the Selwyn, where she is appearing in "The Guilty One."

NEW FILM AT TEMPLE IS THRILLER

"The Ninety and Nine," pictured from Ramsey Morris' famous old play of the same name, is the attraction at Tremont Temple. Two performances will be given daily.

For real thrills the production cannot be beaten. The dramatic story, which is well known to many followers of the stage, where the story was presented for years, offered the producers some of the most stirring situations that motion picture makers have ever had to depict on the screen.

A forest fire is the big sensation, and Director David Smith, whose sole aim in the fire scene was to produce a realistic effect that could not fail to awe the blase patrons of the movie picture theatres, succeeded in accomplishing his aim.

Those who saw the film at the Temple were plainly impressed by the vivid scenes.

"The Ninety and Nine," is well worth seeing.

Why I use Resinol

TEMPERAMENTAL BANKER OFTEN CHOKED HER, WIFE ASSERTS

Temperament, pure and simple, pricked the bubble of Mrs. Mary K. Sears wedded bliss, according to her testimony in the Middlesex Divorce Court, East Cambridge, where she is charging Nathaniel L. Sears, an official of the First National Bank of Newtonville, with cruel and abusive treatment.

"Every day my husband developed a new whim. It was impossible to tell what his moods would drive him to do. He boasted of his temperament, and we bore the brunt of it," said Mrs. Sears, who is now living at No. 1619 Massachusetts avenue, Cambridge.

Most of the inspiration for his moods was derived from the feminine faces he happened to see throughout the day, according to his wife.

RAVED ABOUT WOMEN.

"He was infatuated with every new face that ever came across his horizon. He would come home and rave to me about the beautiful women he had seen. He used to embarrass my women friends by extravagantly complimenting them in my presence," said the dissatisfied wife. "He never seemed to outgrow his calf love period. I had to listen to his enamored ravings day in and day out, until I was so fed up with them that I could not bear the sight of him."

The hot blood in his veins was due to his Spanish and Portuguese ancestry, he used to boast. He demonstrated his hot-headedness by choking his wife and children on slight provocation, they testified.

OFTEN CHOKED WIFE.

Sixteen-year-old Olga Hester Sears a junior at Cambridge High and Latin School, took the stand for her mother, relating the details of several domestic squabbles.

"My father would be kissing me, and suddenly his mood would change and he would leap from his chair and pounce upon mother and choke her until she couldn't speak," the girl said. "I remember one night when he had come in to hear me say my prayers, when suddenly he heard mother in the hall. He rushed out and grabbed her by the ears and pounded her head against the wall. On another day he grabbed her, and after choking her, tried to throw her into the kitchen sink."

Judge Hall granted Mrs. Sears a decree nisi, and left the question of alimony open. "I'd never receive the alimony, your honor, unless he happened to be in a particular mood anyway," said Mrs. Sears as she left the courtroom with her daughter.

Got a Job for "Maid" Who Can Handle Pig Iron or Ice?

Lake Kelley wants a regular he-man's job.

Luke doesn't care a durn whether it is juggling freight, moving pianos or heating safes through eighth-story windows—he just wants some honest-to-gosh male work.

Luke has been on the payroll at the Boston Sanatorium (consumptives' hospital) in the role of a "maid." He has tired of that job, and its monthly reward of $20, and has resigned. Several offers of positions as mother's helper and housekeeper have been turned down by Luke.

CHARGES SOVIET BACKS REVOLT IN IRELAND

By International News Service.

London, Jan. 23.—The Tory Morning Post charged today that the Moscow Soviet was behind the Republican revolt in Ireland. It declared that "arms are being poured into Ireland from the United States and Scotland."

A great drive to round up Republicans was begun by the Free State today all the way across southwestern Ireland, from County Cork to Galway. Prisoners and munitions were captured at Tipperary, Newport, Castle Connell, Limerick and North Galway.

Thomas O'Connell, a member of the Dail Eireann, was captured by Republicans, but escaped.

Professor O'Leary and Dr. Murphy have visited Pope Pius XI. to protest against the Catholic hierarchy's attitudes towards the Republicans. It is understood the Pontiff is consulting Cardinal Logue, primate of Ireland, before making a reply.

BURLESQUE AND VARIETY AT CASINO

Rollicking comedy that drew spontaneous laughter was the chief product of "Step Lively Girls," the burlesque company which opened at Waldron's Casino. Two highly dramatic motion pictures and high grade vaudeville rounded out the three-in-one continuous entertainment. The audiences gave warm welcome to George P. Murphy, even better known as "Hot Dawg" Murphy, the leading comedian. His humor seemed inexhaustible. Sadie Banks went big with the opening day audiences. She recently came to burlesque from the Yiddish stage. She has dramatic talent, ranging from low comedy to intensely emotional action. This was aptly shown by her work in the comedy scene "Three Weeks" with George P. Murphy, and again in the strong dramatic sketch "The Half Hour." In addition, she won applause with topical songs.

LLOYD COMEDY AT LOEW'S STATE

"Dr. Jack," a combination of everything one could hope for in comedy, with Harold Lloyd as the featured player, was shown at Loew's State Theatre Monday. Lloyd's box of tricks seems everlasting and one never knows what to expect, except that the next laugh will be better than the first. As a fun-maker, Mr. Lloyd is established, but in "Dr. Jack" he also presents himself for honors as the screen's greatest lover. A splendid cast is seen in support of Mr. Lloyd. On the same bill was "All the Brothers Were Valiant," a gripping drama of the sea. It is an unusually vivid and powerful whaling story. Hillie Dove and Lon Chaney, the featuring players, are supported by a remarkable cast. A Pathe News will also be shown.

MARY PICKFORD'S FILM AT ORPHEUM

Mary Pickford in her new "Tess of the Storm Country" took her audiences by storm at Loew's Orpheum Theatre Monday. The story is a most appealing one with a heart-touching sacrifice on the part of Tess. The supporting cast is in keeping with the high quality of the production. Heading the vaudeville was Jack De Sylva, assisted by Helen Morgan, in "Sparks of Broadway." Other acts were presented by Lew Wilson, "The Variety Boy;" Eddie and Edith Adair, in "The Bowl Shop;" Weber and Elliott, a pair of character comedians; Julia Curtis in song impressions, and Pickard's seals.

MAGGIE CLINE IS DYING IN NEW JERSEY

Red Bank, N. J., Jan. 23.—The inimitable Maggie Cline, who more than a generation ago was the idol of American vaudeville, was reported today as dying in her home here.

Maggie Cline

Special nurses from Philadelphia and New York said her illness had been complicated by erysipelas and her chances for recovery were remote. She has made her home at Red Bank for twenty years.

Dr. G. V. Warner said he considered her very serious, but she might "live a week or even totally recover."

She began her famous career in the Howard Athenaeum, Boston.

"Down Went McGinty," describing McGinty's wake with Pat McCann, that McCann could not carry him to the top of a stone wall, was one of the songs she made famous. But probably her greatest song hit was "Throw Him Down, McCloskey," the classic reciting the grudge between McCloskey and McCracken, a braggart who dared not fight and finally supplied a negro as his substitute.

Maggie Cline sang this song with flatic demonstrations that never failed to send her audiences into paroxysms of delight. The chorus, "Throw him down, McCloskey, that was the battle cry; throw him down, McCloskey, you can lick him if you try," was always accompanied by great crashes off stage, supposed to represent the downfall of McCloskey's foe.

Miss Cline was born in Portland, Me., near the home of the poet, Longfellow.

MISSING GIRL IS FOUND FREEZING IN A SHED

North Attleboro, Jan. 23.—Both hands frozen and near death by exhaustion, Mary Carpenter, the pretty school girl who has been missing since Sunday, was found in a deserted shed after wandering for more than twenty hours in the woods.

The girl left the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward B. Carpenter, No. 80 Peck street, after several announcements that she had intended ending her life.

One of the posse conducting a search, led by Deputy Sheriff P. Toner, discovered her in a shack on the Kent farm in Metcalf street. Dr. Daniel J. Kiley administered first aid, and expressed the opinion that death would have followed within a few hours had the girl not been found.

The police believe that overstudy caused a nervous breakdown, which temporarily unbalanced her mind. Recently she leaped from her pew in St. Mary's Church and ran to the altar. When her parents informed the police that she was missing, her wanderings were traced to the reservoir and the Old Town fire house. The thickness of the ice, it is believed, prevented her from seeking death by drowning, she is sixteen years old.

New York—The thousands of members of what is known on Broadway as the "Excuse me, Mister, I'm broke" army either go to work or leave the city. One hundred organizations have united with the city administration to rid the metropolis of beggars.

WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

Relieved of Nervousness and Other Distressing Ailments by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

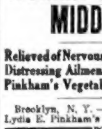
Brooklyn, N. Y. — "I first took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound four years ago, and am taking it now for the Change of Life and other troubles and I receive great benefit from it. I am willing to let you use my letter as a testimonial because it is the truth. I found your booklet in my letter box and read it carefully, and that is how I came to take the Vegetable Compound myself. It has given me quiet nerves so that I sleep all night, and a better appetite. I have recommended it already to all my friends and relatives."— Mrs. ENGELMANN, 2083 Palmetto St., Ridgewood, Brooklyn, N. Y.



For the woman suffering from nervous troubles causing sleeplessness, headache, hysteria, "the blues," Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will be found a splendid medicine. For the woman of middle age who is passing through the trials of that period, it can be depended upon to relieve the troubles common at that time.

Realize what Kellogg's Bran means to your family's health?

Eaten regularly each day, Kellogg's Bran will permanently relieve constipation; it will free you from dangerous toxic poisons that lead to 90% of all human illness; it will remove the cause and sweeten a bad breath; it will clear a pimply complexion through its work on the bowels. In fact, Kellogg's Bran, through its natural action as a bulk, indigestible agent, will tone up the whole system!

If you know exactly what constipation means from a medical view point you would lose no time eating Kellogg's Bran yourself and serving it daily to your family. And, Kellogg's is actually delicious, its nut-like flavor adding greatly to the enjoyment of eating cereals. Eat at least two tablespoonfuls each day; in chronic cases, with each meal.

There are many attractive ways to serve Kellogg's Bran. Eat it in winter with hot milk as a cereal. Or, mix it with cereals before serving. Many housewives cook it with cereals, in such case adding two tablespoonfuls for each person. You will also enjoy the nut-like flavor of Kellogg's Bran when it has been sprinkled over hot or cold cereals.

You have missed some of the joys of life if you have not eaten raisin bread, muffins, griddle cakes, etc., made with Kellogg's Bran. Recipes are printed on each box.

Don't delay your fight against constipation, don't lose a minute in the great battle against illness! You can buy Kellogg's Bran from all grocers and you can have it served in individual packages at fine class hotels, restaurants and clubs.

EPISCOPAL CHURCH FACES CLASH WITH RADICAL CLERICS

DR. GRANT GROUP DEMAND TRIAL OF ALL "HERETICS"

New York, Jan. 23.—A course of action to be pursued in the case of the Rev. Percy Stickney Grant has been decided upon by certain of his adherents, it was announced today.

While Dr. Grant was at work, it was understood, on his formal reply to Bishop Manning in connection with the latter's ultimatum to "recant or resign," it was learned from an authoritative source:

"It is accepted as a certainty that Dr. Grant will go on trial. Already the bishop is understood to have the names of two presbyteria necessary to prefer the heresy charges.

"Furthermore, Dr. Grant does not wish to be dismissed from his place as is the impression among certain churchmen. Rather, he is desirous of measuring words with the bishop and is confident he will win."

OTHERS FACE TRIAL.

The same source revealed that course of action said to have been adopted by Dr. Grant's friends, including a group of liberal clerics. This will involve a series of trials, of which that of Dr. Grant will be only a starter.

The trials will be instituted, it was added, by Dr. Grant's own group in retaliation.

The motive to be put forth in the launching of trials of a group of clergymen in the diocese, it was added, will be:

"Dr. Grant is only one of a large group of the clergy who are against certain rulings and church routine. He should not be made the scapegoat of the bishop. If the bishop does not mean to assist in activities against Dr. Grant from a personal motive, then let him try all who have been guilty of refractions of the rubrics and who have preached alleged false doctrines."

BISHOP WARNS RECTORS

That Bishop Manning, in his "house cleaning" in which it is said he warned several rectors will be subjected to pressure looking toward trials of those who have incurred his displeasure, was given as a fact.

In one case, it was broadly inferred, the clergyman himself will insist on being tried. Several of Dr. Grant's friends in the clergy, it was added, would make complaints against certain others as the first move to bring their cases to trial.

Dr. G. A. Carstensen, rector of the Church of the Holy Rood, said:

"The opinion among the clergy is that Dr. Grant has made an unfortunate stand. Even those who are his friends and associates regret his movement. As to his opinions voiced in his sermons, he has said nothing new in his assault on the faith.

"Infidelity has discharged its Big Bertha again and no damage has been done. Sunday's feeble yelps by Dr. Grant will have about as much effect as birdshot on Gibraltar. There is no split facing the church over Dr. Grant. However, it will lead to much more than a mere trial."

When asked if he thought there was any remote likihood that Dr. Grant would seek to start a new church, with the Church of the Ascension, physical properties as a basis, Dr. Carstensen replied:

"That is quite out of the question. Personally, I don't think Dr. Grant is figuring much on a new church idea, for I believe he thinks he can win in this case."

Dr. Grant has sent the following letter to Bishop Manning:

DR. GRANT'S REPLY.

"I received Friday night your personal letter, which you had also sent to the newspapers.

"Saturday and Sunday were very busy days with matters that could not be postponed and today, Monday, I have had to be away from my desk most of the time.

"I shall have to ask you, therefore, to suffer a few days to pass before my formal reply is placed in your hands."

Exodus of Hub Society Folk Abroad Continues, Says Betty Alden

By BETTY ALDEN.

IT'S a funny wind that doesn't blow somebody Mediterranean-ward these days. Everyone who can appears to be migrating to these more balmy regions—which in view of all the bad weather we're enjoying here—shows excellent judgment on the part of the "migrates."

Mrs. Barrett Wendell of Marlboro street is sailing this week for that popular Mediterranean port, Algiers. There she is to meet Miss Rose L. Dexter of Beacon street, planning to remain there until the Spring anyway. Miss Dexter, who is one of Boston's most noted philanthropists, has been abroad for several months.

Others who have sailed for the Mediterranean within the past week include Mrs. George S. Mumford of Chestnut Hill and her sport-loving daughter, Miss Isabelle Mumford. The latter, a petite blonde, is an enthusiastic tennis player, and it was lots of fun to watch her last week at the Animated Advertising Adventure when she represented a well-known sporting goods store and batted several dozen tennis balls into the audience. It was really quite a stunt, as the runway was extremely narrow, and Miss Mumford was particular to see to it that people in parts of the large auditorium received the balls. Which reminds me that several dignified matrons unbent so far as to make rather hectic but successful "dives" after the balls as the latter came soaring up to the edge of their boxes.

Others who left last week on board the Homeric for the popular Mediterranean cruise include Dr. and Mrs. Malcolm Storer of Beacon street and their debutante daughter, Miss Murial Storer; Miss Rose Parker, Miss Ruth Thayer, daughter of Mrs. Bayard Thayer; Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Bigelow, Mr. and Mrs. Lyneham Crocker and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Bradley.

MRS. MAURICE OSBORNE (Nancy Cabot) and Mrs. Mortimer Seabury went over to New York the other day to uphold the Boston end of a debate between the Junior Leagues of Boston and the Hub.

No less weighty a question was discussed than "Resolved, That American civilization is detrimental to women." Of the judges, by the way, was Mrs. Francis Peabody, who went over for the occasion with Mrs. Osborne and Mrs. Seabury.

SENATOR AND MRS. WALTER E. EDGE (Camilla Sewall), who are spending their honeymoon in Europe, are at present in Monte Carlo. Senator and Mrs. Edge, whose marriage was solemnized last month at the Bath, Me., home of the bride's parents, plan to return to New York early in February. The former Miss Sewall, who attended Miss Winsor's School, has a host of friends and connections in Boston.

MRS. THEODORE N. VAIL of Boston was among those sailing from New York the other day on board the Empress of France bound for a round-the-world cruise via the Panama Canal and San Francisco. The boat will "at Honolulu, Japan, China, Philippines, Straits Settlements, Ceylon, India, Egypt, Holy Land, North Africa, Italy, Monaco and Gibraltar before returning to New York.

MRS. MORTIMER SEABURY

Mrs. Mortimer Seabury of Weston went over to New York to take part in the debate between the Junior Leagues of Boston and Gotham. Going over with her were Mrs. Maurice Osborne and Mrs. Francis Peabody.

DR. AND MRS. BARTLETT ENDICOTT WARREN and Mr. and Mrs. George A. Dobyne, all of the Beverly Farms colony at Palm Beach, were among those entertained or entertaining at the opening of the Palm Beach Country Club.

FRESH STORM ON WAY HERE

A storm warning for New England was flashed from Washington today. Snow, accompanied by "strong easterly winds, of probable gale force" is due to hit the northeastern states late today.

The disturbance, at mid-forenoon, was reported over Alabama, moving north rapidly, and increasing in intensity.

"More snow tonight or Wednesday" is predicted by the local weather bureau for Boston.

MANY U. S. EXPORTS ON WAR-TIME BASIS

Washington, Jan. 23.—Maintenance of war-time expansion in the export trade of many industries in the United States was revealed in an analysis of quantity figures covering the first nine months of 1922 and the same period in 1913, made public today.

Figures show sugar gaining 4,956 per cent., rye 1,782, rice 1,178, oats 364, corn 223, oranges 60, wheat 53, wheat flour 21, barley 17, bacon 56, lard 38, gasoline, naphthas, etc., 291, gas and fuel oil 105, crude petroleum 100, lubricating oil 65, iron scrap 663, sulphur 467, zinc slabs, blocks 223, nails 31, iron and steel sheets, plates, 21, iron wire 3, automobile trucks 329, passenger automobiles 140, incandescent lamps 88, internal combustion engines 58, and cotton cloth 39 per cent.

SENATOR EDGE AND WIFE AT MONTE CARLO

Senator and Mrs. Walter E. Edge, now on their honeymoon in Europe, will sail for home early in February. They are now at Monte Carlo. Before her marriage last year, Mrs. Edge was Miss Camille Loyall Ashe Sewall of Bath, Me. It was announced recently that Senator Edge has purchased at Ventnor, near Atlantic City, a whole city block on the beach front, where he will build a home for his bride.

SAVED IN FIRE, WEST END MAN IS ARRESTED

Several women rushed out of the doorway at No. 184 Sumner street, East Boston, today into the path of Henry A. Lewis of No. 279 Havre street, and excitedly cried "Fire."

One, said to be Mrs. Edna Magnia proprietress of the lodging house there, sobbed that a man was penned in on the third floor.

Lewis groped his way upstairs and burst in a room. There he found Joseph Kelleher of Bowdoin street, West End, unconscious. Smoke, meanwhile, was belching through the halls.

Slinging Kelleher over his right shoulder, Lewis felt his way to the stairs and staggered to the street where officers of East Boston police station arrested Kelleher as drunk and charged him with overturning an oil stove, the cause of the fire.

FOILS COP AND FLEES THROUGH COAL SHUTE

When Patrolman John E. Bowton tried the door of the store at No. 76 Marginal street, East Boston, he detected a shadow within, and so broke in to find what it was all about.

He flashed on his pocket light, but failed to find anything, so he went to the cellarway, and there at the top of the stairs shouted:

"Come up out of there before I shoot!"

Came a voice from the darkness: "Don't shoot! I got my hands up!"

"All right, come ahead. Is anyone with you?"

Came a second voice: "Go to blazes."

John M. Fahey, twenty, came up. The other crawled up a coal shute, lifted the cover and escaped.

Later at East Boston station Fahey confessed to his part in the robbery, and said John di Cicco of Webster street, East Boston, was his partner. When the latter was grilled by the police he confessed. All together they had loot worth about $150.

FRITZIE MANN, SLAIN DANCER, WAS MARRIED TWICE IN SECRET

SUSPECT IS REVEALED BY MOTHER

Tells Name of Man She Believes Caused Death of Her Daughter

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 23.—While Miss Fritzie Mann, dancer, mysteriously slain a week ago near San Diego, was being buried there, her weeping mother murmured the name of a man connected with the case, charging him with her daughter's death.

"Fritzie had been married twice," asserted Dr. Louis L. Jacobs, army surgeon, held four days for investigation in connection with the case, but released.

"Fritzie told me this as a friend and as professional adviser," added the doctor. "However, she did not mention either husband's name. She had concealed the marriages," he said, "because of parental objection to the matches."

San Diego police went to Hollywood in search of a man believed to know a good deal about the fatal trip of the dancer to La Jolla "love cottage" and the subsequent finding of her almost nude body upon the ocean sands near Torrey Pines. The person sought is reported to be a film actor.

ELIMINATOR SQUEALS FROM CONDENSER

FIRST "WRINKLE" OF SECOND WEEK

Device for eliminating body capacity effects from condenser. The fiber tubing shown has an inside diameter of the condenser shaft. The extension makes a complete insulation between dial and condenser, completely eliminating hand capacity.

FANS DEVICE KILLS BODY HOWLS

Starting another week's contest for a free WD-11 vacuum tube, Rowland Rudd, of Stone & Webster, Inc., offered an ingenious method for eliminating body capacity effects in a receiver using a tuning condenser.

A similar plan has been offered by other contestants, but Mr. Rudd's explanation and diagram were by far the clearest and most explicit.

He says:

"Many people have noticed in using various circuits, that a great variety of squeals and howls are produced when the hand is brought close to the dial of the tuning condenser. This very objectionable feature may be easily remedied in the following manner:

"Mount the condenser on brass brackets three or four inches back of the panel. This allows for an extension, made of fiber tubing, to the shaft of the condenser. The accompanying sketch illustrates the idea clearly. No live part of the condenser is allowed to extend through to the front of the panel, thereby keeping everything behind the shield. Also there is complete insulation between the dial and the condenser itself, thereby absolutely doing away with hand capacity."

More Vacuum Tubes for Best Radio "Wrinkles"

The free tube contest that started last week is going to keep right on as long as the supply of suggestions holds out, and it shows no indication of petering out.

TURK DEADLOCK UNBROKEN

Lausanne, Jan. 23. — Efforts to break the Near East peace conference deadlock on the Mosul boundaries failed today.

The delegates discussed the issue but neither Marquis Curzon, head of the British delegation, nor Ismet Pasha, head of the Turkish delegation, would budge from his position.

The Turks claim that Mosul, with its rich oil fields, is a part of the Turkish State; the British, who hold oil concessions in the Mosul fields, contend that Mosul is part of the Kingdom of Irak, which the British control.

BELIEVE FRENCH GIRL RED TRIED TO KILL HERRICK

By International News Service

Paris, Jan. 23.—Clews indicating that Germaine Berton, young woman anarchist who assassinated the royalist leader, Marius Plateau, was responsible for the attempt upon the life of Myron T. Herrick, American Ambassador, in October, 1921, were under investigation today by Judge Jusselin, examining magistrate.

These clews consisted chiefly of documents and statements the girl is said to have communicated with Anarchist friends.

M. Plateau, who was editor of the royalist newspaper, l'Action Francaise, was declared by his friends to have been a victim of his own patriotism. Monarchists plan a patriotic demonstration at his funeral.

Leon Daudet, royalist member of the Chamber of Deputies, writing in Action Francaise today, again demanded immediate occupation of Berlin by French troops. He suggested that aviation depots be established near Berlin so the city could be bombed if the people became disobedient. A similar demand had appeared in yesterday's issue just a few hours before M. Plateau was shot to death in his office.

In revenge for the assassination of the royalist chief a monarchist mob attacked the offices of the Socialist newspapers l'Oeuvre and l'Ere Nouvelle. Considerable damage was done to the composing rooms.

The mob was on its way to attack the plant of the Communist newspaper Humanite when it was intercepted by police. Several arrests were made.

ASKS U. S. PROBE OF NEW HAVEN

Protest against New Haven Railroad service and a suggestion that government intervention is needed are contained in a telegram dispatched to the Boston American from New London, Ct., by Russell Palmer of No. 37 Pearl street, New York. The message reads:

"In interest of general public I respectfully urge that you investigate the character of the service now being maintained by the New Haven as exemplified by today's (Jan. 22) 3 o'clock train from Boston to New York, which was held at the station for three-quarters of an hour after scheduled leaving time while a search was being made for a locomotive fit to haul it out. This has occurred so frequently of late as to indicate a general physical breakdown of the road and the need for prompt government intervention to safeguard public interest and prevent loss of life."

COUE CURED ME, MARY GARDEN DECLARES

"Coue cured me!"—Mary Garden, diva.

The former impressario of the Chicago Opera Company and present private in the Chicago Civic Opera Company gives the little Frenchman all credit that she is able to be in Boston.—"dear old Boston."

"Ten days after I read his little book and practiced what it taught I walked from a sick bed to the stage and played my role. I'm healthy and I'm a firm believer in Coue. He and his dogma have worked wonders for me!"

Mary, it appears, is not the only "healthy" member of the operatic troupe. She seems eminently content in her comparatively obscure position as "just a singer," after wielding the sceptre of control.

"We're healthy, our company," she explained, "and that's everything. The morale is perfect. Physically, financially and mentally we're healthy. I anticipate with great pleasure my appearance tonight in Tosca. I am certainly glad to be in Boston!"

But that's what they all say, even those who aren't disciples of Coue.

BOSTON ALMOST FREE FROM GEM THIEVES

New York, Jan. 23.—Robberies of jewelers throughout the United States decreased in 1922, according to figures compiled by the Jewelers' Security Alliance of No. 15 Maiden Lane. The total losses suffered by the trade amounted to about $1,500,000, as compared with $2,000,000 in 1921. There were 777 attacks committed in 1922 as against 973 in the year preceding. Chicago has the worst record. New York is next; Boston and Cleveland are almost free from jewel thieves.

AMERICANS LAX IN WEARING OF FULL DRESS

St. Louis, Jan. 23.—Stricter adherence to evening clothes was urged by speakers at the forty-third annual convention of the Merchant Tailor Designers' Association here today.

L. C. Tyler, chairman of the fashion committee, said the average American man's tendency to neglect changing from the Tuxedo to the full dress leaves the impression that he has less regard for his feminine companion than has the average Englishman.

"Tuxedo or dinner clothes are all right for card parties and dinners, but for balls or other evening functions they are taboo," he said.

Comfort, softness and grace will characterize every day custom clothes. Coats will have longer waist lines and fit close over the hips. Trousers will be fuller, although not peg top.

IMPORTING OF RUM STOPPED BY P. E. I.

Charlottetown, P. E. I., Jan. 23.—The Province of Prince Edward Island, already dry, has voted to prohibit the importation of liquor for export.

Dandruffy Heads Become Hairless

USE LIQUID ARVON

If you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It does no good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. Four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.

The Ferris "Ten Factors of Flavor"

1. Fresh hams selected from America's choicest stock.
2. Secret old-fashioned curing syrup based upon granulated white sugar, pure table salt and artesian well water.
3. Grandfather method of curing from the outside only. Solution is not injected into hams to hasten the process.
4. Time is no object. Flavor is supreme consideration.
5. Smoked slowly over aromatic green hickory wood.
6. Excess moisture removed. Perfect proportion of meat and juices. You don't pay for water.

7. Dozens of inspections. Government is only half as severe as Ferris.
8. Ferris Hams cured under one roof right in New York and under the personal supervision of Ferris executives.
9. Protected against handling by parchment paper and special burlap.
10. Shipped only a few at a time. Always fresh at your dealer's.

Overflowing with Nourishment and Oh! So Delicious!

PROBABLY you never have thought of it before, but the most nourishing form of food you can eat is a Ferris Ham!

Government experts put ham away at the top of the list for food value. It excels in proteins and mineral salts; it is supreme in fat and calorie content; and it stands high in those newly discovered health-building vitamines.

And combined with this wonderful food value, Ferris Ham is the most delectable food you can buy in the whole calendar of meats!

Boiled, baked, roasted—cooked any way—this delicious meat is simply a confection of flavors—an indescribable combination of sugary syrups and perky salt, the suggestion of toothsome nuts and verdant greens, all intermingling with the rich natural juices of pure-bred porkers and topped off with that delightful spice which can come only from the aromatic smoke of green hickory wood.

Ferris Hams are the direct result of the Ferris "Ten Factors of Flavor" we developed over sixty years ago to produce the most delicious ham in the world.

In sixty years no one ever has been able to improve these famous "Ten Factors".

CITIZENS CURB RAIL DISORDERS IN ARKANSAS

Harrison, Ark., Jan. 23.—Conditions along the Missouri & North Arkansas Railroad today were more firmly in the grip of citizens openly opposed to striking workmen on that road after the resignations of J. L. Clute, Mayor; George Minicus, city alderman, and William Parr, city marshal, and indorsement of the work of the "citizens' committee" here by a mass meeting at Eureka Springs.

Armed volunteers continued to patrol Harrison streets and the roads leading into the city.

Mayor Clute's resignation will become effective February 5, while immediate successors to Minicus and Parr were selected by a meeting of the City Council.

The resignations follow a week of virtual control here by a "citizens' committee" selected to stop burnings and other depredations which have tied up service along the line.

At Eureka Springs a committee of twelve was selected to call before it any person suspected of having any connection with attempts to hinder operation of the railroad. A resolution was adopted which commended the action of the citizens' committee and rebuked all "utterances in sympathy with the continuance of the strike."

She'll Say to Bold, Bad Bootlegger: 'Please Be Good'

A number of Cambridge women are each to have a private bootlegger of their own. Oh gee, oh, gosh. Each member of the group is to hustle out and find an honest bootlegger and then become acquainted. But the idea is not to buy his wares. Instead, Mrs. William Tilton, who put across the idea at the home of Mrs. Cordelia Ward of Prospect street, Cambridge, says that if churchwomen sort of adopt these bootleggers that they will dissuade them from their sinful ways and make them law-abiding citizens. She says: "Put public opinion behind the home police and the home courts and put social service behind our bootlegger and law enforcement becomes a fact."

BROTHER SAW RICHARDSON'S WEEKLY ROWS

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert G. Richardson of Somerville staged a fight each week during 1913 and 1914, according to testimony today in the $10,000 alienation of affections suit brought by Richardson against George E. Brown of Somerville.

Raymond Dexter of North Easton, brother of Mrs. Richardson, testified he lived with the Richardsons and saw the weekly battles.

"One day," said Dexter, "I saw Richardson drag my sister from the front room to the kitchen. I struck him. He asked me what right I had to interfere and threw a dish pan at me."

Dexter said he saw a revolver in the house and that Richardson had threatened him and his sister.

Mrs. Richardson testified that in 1914 she left her husband four days because "he unjustly accused me of kissing a man named Boyd, a friend of my brother." Mrs. Richardson denied she had ever kissed Boyd or Brown. She testified Mrs. Brown frequently accompanied her at night when Mr. Brown brought her home.

She said she asked her husband about kissing Mrs. Richardson and he explained he had not kissed her and she "was perfectly satisfied with his explanation."

DRINK WATER TO HELP WASH OUT KIDNEY POISON

If Your Back Hurts or Bothers you, Begin Taking Jad Salts

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which helps to remove the body's waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of good water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they are no longer a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which everyone should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this; also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at last twice a year.

TWO FACE EXPULSION AT B. U.

Students Accused of Offering Examination Answers to Mater for $6 a Copy

Mid-year examination papers in Boston University Law School were offered for sale at $6 each, and two students face expulsion as a result of an investigation being conducted by Dean Homer Albers.

A go-between, said to be an ex-policeman, who approached students of the law school in the interest of employes of the printers who compiled the examination sheets, is being sought.

Dean Albers

Employes of the Atlantic Printing Company, of No. 291 South street, offered extra copies to the students at $6 each, according to Augustus M. Summers, who has represented the printers in transactions with the law school.

Frank Braden, a sophomore, was questioned by Dean Albers today. Paul Keefe, a freshman, has also been "on the mat."

Ten students, including Edward Murray of Revere, William Dorgan, Edward Bell and Frank Gibson, appeared before Dean Albers, at his request, to tell what they knew of the affair.

REFUSE TO BUY.

The students are said to have admitted they knew of the proposed furnishing of advance copies of the questions, but they declared they scorned the proposition.

"A man approached me and said there was a possibility of getting the papers," Paul Keefe said. "I should have hit him, but I didn't. Later, in the presence of my friends, he again made the suggestion, and we told him where to head to."

Augustus M. Summers, the representative of the printing company, admitted that there has been a leak in the printing company. "Some one in our employ has been selling the question papers," he said. "Of course the guilty ones were wise enough to employ a go-between, a person unknown as yet, but I am told he is a former policeman.

CHICAGO OPERA IS TRIUMPH

Claudia Muzio, in Role of Aida, Fascinates Large Boston Audience

By ZOE FABER.

Flickering moonlight on the Nile followed the incense-laden, gorgeously-colored atmosphere of the Temple of Isis at the Boston Opera House when the Chicago Opera, under the more than able direction of Giorgio Polacco, put on its premier performance of the two weeks' season.

"Aida" (Verdi) was the opera chosen and again its possibilities for the play of light, color and music proved the wisdom of the choice for the premier.

MUZIO IN TITLE ROLE.

An announcement slip fell out of the program to advise the audience that because of slight indisposition, Rosa Raisa, billed to sing the title role, would be replaced by Claudia Muzio.

The voice of Claudio Muzio is one that has held audiences breathless on many occasions and this was one more. She has a voice that is tremendous in volume and beautiful in quality and she sang in a way to fascinate the most hardened opera-goer. If the company had to depend on Muzio, she is worth far more than the price of admission.

The greatest possible credit is due to Georgio Polacco for the remarkable effects that he obtained, both with solo and ensemble numbers. His chorus was unusually fine.

OPERA GORGEOUS.

Space forbids details but a word must be said about the ballet of Adolph Bolm. Such dancing as distinguished the Triumphal Scene has seldom if ever been equalled in the American productions of "Aida."

Cyrena Van Gordon sang Amneris, and her big contralto voice was quite equal to the heavy demands of the role.

Radames was sung by Charles Marshall, who is infinitely better than many who have essayed it, and not as good as some. He is interesting because he acts well.

A very fine voice was disclosed by Vicente Formichi, who sang Amonasro, and was splendid in it.

Brilliant Throng of Society Folk at Opera

The Boston premiers of the Chicago Opera in the Boston Opera House attracted a brilliant audience. Society was well represented among the beautifully gowned boxholders.

$30,000,000 MORE THAN FAIR PRICE

Legislative Order Directs Hultman to Get After Speculators

An order directing Chairman Eugene C. Hultman of the Commission on the Necessaries of Life to report to the Legislature at once the names of Massachusetts coal dealers and brokers who are speculating in high-price coal was filed in the House this afternoon by Representative John J. Hefferman of Brighton.

"The people are being gouged in the price of coal," said Hefferman. "In fact, it has been charged by Hultman that the people of New England this Winter will pay $30,000,000 more than a fair price for coal. This being so, the people should be informed by some official source the names of the dealers who are gouging them and the extent to which they are being gouged.

"The price of coal at the mines during the war was $6.60 a ton. Last year it was fifteen cents higher. Today the price is $8.25.

"During the war a premium of seventy-five cents a ton was allowed on the so-called 'independent' coal. Now the premium ranges from $1.50 to $3.50 a ton. Coal prices are higher than last year although the freight rates have dropped 13 per cent., and the cost of labor is the same as a year ago.

"Although only 5 per cent. of the total coal mined in this country is the high-priced 'independent' coal, 12 per cent. of all the coal we receive in this State is in the high-price coal. There is plenty of high-price coal for sale and an alleged shortage of low-priced coal."

City Fuel Head Plans to Extend "Bag Stations"

The extension of the "bag station" system to overcome the present coal shortage in Boston is under consideration by Everett Morse, city fuel administrator, it was announced today.

President Edward Hamlin of the Metropolitan Coal Co., while in favor of bag stations, stated that his company would not have to establish any additional ones.

"All of our yards are open for business with those who are able to go after their coal. We are so situated that we can cover practically every part of the city from our permanent yards," he said.

At the office of the Massachusetts Wharf Coal Company it was stated that the matter of opening bag-stations had not been formally discussed.

"Come and get it" is the usual reply to customers seeking coal in Waltham, Newton, Brookline, Cambridge and other cities in the Metropolitan district.

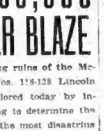
Signed petitions, calling on Congress to act in the present coal situation, are being received in every mail. From all parts of New England they come, denoting that the shortage is by no means confined to Boston.

4 FIREMEN HURT AT $150,000 LEATHER BLAZE

The smouldering ruins of the McDonald Block, Nos. 118-128 Lincoln street, were explored today by investigators seeking to determine the origin of one of the most disastrous fires in years, which caused between $150,000 and $200,000 damage and menaced the Boston leather district.

Thousands of tons of water hurled against the building in the fight waged by every available fireman in

Wm. L. Nolan



Timothy Costello

Greater Boston to control the blaze, and the city's new high pressure system is consequently praised for the final subduing of the flames.

FOUR INJURED.

Four firemen were injured or overcome by smoke, a score narrowly escaped injury when they were hurled downstairs by a series of explosions and many others were made ill by the smoke.

The fire was one of the hardest to fight in the experience of Chief Taber, that official declared. It was impossible to allow firemen to remain in the building the flames had made such rapid headway. The collapse of floors laden with materials and leather stock was threatened at all times.

The first alarm was sounded at 9:30 o'clock and it was not until after midnight that it was controlled. The three upper floors of the McDonald block were virtually destroyed, and two upper stories at No. 132 Lincoln street were swept by water.

Fireman William L. Noian of Engine 8 was struck on the head by a brick while standing in Utica street. He was knocked unconscious and taken to the Relief Hospital. He is reported slightly injured. Fireman Timothy Costello of Engine 26 was cut by flying glass and is at the City Hospital. Fireman Thomas Lane of the same company was overcome by smoke, as was Captain Henry Drake of Engine 7. He returned to duty.

R. E. McDonald & Co. occupied the three upper floors of the building where the fire originated. Other occupants are A. Shapiro & Co., Thomas Logan & Co., and Frank W. Hunt & Co. The fire started on the fourth floor.

Thirty lines of hose, throwing five tons of water a minute, played on the blaze. One of the spectacular features was the vigil at windows-anes kept by hundreds of occupants of rooms in the United States Hotel, directly opposite.

The first alarm was automatic. When Chief Taber reached the scene he ordered a second and third alarms and a fourth was sounded at 10:39, more than an hour after the blaze was discovered.

Ashes of 2 Husbands 'Left in Draft,' Sues Cremation Firm

New York, Jan. 23.—Charging that the ashes of her first two husbands were left in a draft and might have been mixed or blown away, Mrs. Alvina Ahnert seeks $10,000 damages of the United States Cremation Company at Fresh Pond.

She bases her claim on the shock she suffered when she discovered this alleged offence and her fears for the ultimate care of her own ashes.

Mrs. Ahnert's third husband, vanished at the same time in 1907 that she missed her life savings, which, say her attorney, she withdrew from the bank on that husband's advice.

$6,500 THEFT IS CHARGED TO POLITICIAN

John H. Wilson, thirty-four years old, of No. 34 Hollis street, South End, defeated at the last primaries in his candidacy on the Republican ticket for Representative in Ward 5, was arraigned today, charged with larceny of $6,500.

John P. Murphy of No. 104 West Cedar street, West End, was complainant. The larceny is alleged to have occurred on July 4, 1921, when Murphy says he was induced to part with $6,500 to help capitalize the "Merchant Association."

He told the police that in consideration for his investment he was promised a share in the business and a clerical position at $35 a week.

Letters which Murphy says Wilson showed him to prove strong backing included one alleged to have been signed by a former Governor of Vermont. The police say that Wilson was arraigned in Municipal Court last November charged with larceny of $1,000 when he was treasurer of the American Home Trust.

NOTED PARIS AUTHOR, MAX NORDAU, DEAD

Paris, Jan. 23.—Max Nordau, world noted author and physician, member of the French Academy, is dead at his home here. He was born in Budapest July 29, 1849. He was a contributor to the Hearst newspapers of America, and came into prominence when he published "Degeneration."

MABEL A. WOODS ! GO HOME TO MOTHER

After four months of weary waiting an aged and bed-ridden mother today appealed to the American to help locate her missing eighteen-year-old daughter. The girl is Miss Mabel A. Woods of 220 Adams street, Lynn, and she disappeared on September 9 1922. She had just turned eighteen, had blue eyes, was about five feet in height and weighed about 110 pounds. When last seen she was wearing a black feather trimmed velvet hat, brown shadow lace dress, brown belted ankle length overcoat and low black patent leather shoes. She carried nothing but a dress suit case and was not believed to have had much money. Her mother is Mrs. William J. Woods.

LAYS HER WOES TO HUSBAND'S AMBITION

Captured on her honeymoon by a band of wandering Turks in Armenia, Mrs. Aghavnie Nurijanian, who now lives at No. 48 Beacon street, Somerville, used every wile and ruse to escape and return to her husband, only to find that her husband's cruelty outrivaled that of the Turks, according to the Armenian girl's own story in the Cambridge Divorce Court.

The young bride told of a horseback ride over the country to their camp, and then days of bondage in the camp and escape to Constantinople.

"My husband met me, and we hurried over to America," she said. "We stayed at Newburyport for a while and then came to Boston. Here my husband was bitten by the American ambition for money. He made up his mind to be a millionaire, and he wanted to sacrifice me for his ambition. He discovered I had some money saved from my father's fortune in Armenia, and he tried to force me into giving it to him.

"He beat me with a stove poker because he found I had deposited my money in a bank, where he couldn't get it," said Mrs. Nurijanian.

"Once he beat me with his shoe because I would not dance for him when I was too tired to move. He beat me so hard that I fell down on the floor unconscious and had to be cared for in bed for three days."

She laughed gleefully when she was granted a decree nisi.

WALSH TO FORCE ACTION ON COAL THIS WEEK

Washington, Jan. 23.—In the face of country-wide complaints over coal shortages and high prices of fuel, action will be started in Congress this week to stop the exportation of coal to Canada until American needs are taken care of.

Senator David I. Walsh of Massachusetts said today he would introduce a resolution in the Senate this week establishing an embargo on Canadian shipments.

The resolution will request the Interstate Commerce Commission to stop coal deliveries across the northern boundary immediately in an effort to relieve the growing shortage in this country, he said.

Furthermore, the resolution will ask the commission to investigate the combustibility of coal now being sold in the United States with a view to restricting distribution of coal containing non-inflammable impurities.

STATE HOUSE HEARING ON COAL TOMORROW

The House Rules Committee of the Legislature will hold a public hearing at 2:30 tomorrow afternoon on a resolution of Representative James J. Mellen of Charlestown protesting against the shipping of American coal to Canada.

Mr. Mellen's resolution declares that although a coal shortage exists in this country, causing tragic suffering to thousands of families, large quantities of coal are evidently being shipped to foreign countries.

He asks that the Legislature urge Congress to pass the Rogers bill, which demands that an embargo be raised against all shipments to foreign countries until the shortage in this country is relieved.

DIVORCE GRANTED SHIMMY SHAKER

Milwaukee, Jan. 27.—Gilda Gray, known in New York as the premiere shimmy shaker of the Follies," was granted a divorce in the circuit Court here. Gilda testified in a deposition she was earning $1,000 a week, while all she got while living with her husband was $1 a week. An agreement gives the husband, John Gorecki, custody of the nine-year-old son.

O'ROURKE IS HOPEFUL TAYLOR WILL BE ANOTHER WALCOTT

HEAVYWEIGHTS CLASH AT ARMORY TONIGHT

By JACK CONWAY.

Jack Taylor of Omaha, whom Tom O'Rourke hopes will develop into a second Joe Walcott, will do the heavy punching against Battling McCreary at the Armory A. A.'s show at the Grand Opera House tonight.

Taylor is a light-heavyweight and is still in his early twenties. He has taken part in some sixty bouts and has won them all, mostly by knockouts.

Sam Langford was defeated a couple of times. Kid Norfolk also went down before the Westerner.

Taylor then came East. It was only natural that O'Rourke should be attracted by the youthful heavyweight sensation. Tom has managed many fighters, some good, some bad. His big successes have been scored with the colored warriors. The cases of George Dixon, former world's featherweight champion, and Joe Walcott, who could knock out heavyweights just as easily as he could topple over welterweights, are the most prominent.

If Taylor is half as good as Walcott, O'Rourke won't have to worry about the high cost of rent and such things. And Jack's record seems to indicate that great things may be expected of him.

* * *

McCreary, one of the best of the negro light-heavyweights, should give Taylor a rugged test. But has gone up and down the line and has defeated a flock of sturdy opposition. He is a strong, aggressive fighter and a heavy puncher and should be able to make things mighty interesting for Taylor.

McCreary, although outweighed by forty pounds, gave Harry Wills a torrid engagement.

* * *

Frankie Ryan of Everett will try to win over Tibbie Lawrey of Malden once more when these boys collide in the semi-final of ten rounds. These boys met recently at the Triple A and Ryan won after a sensational engagement.

Frankie Buff of Charlestown boxes eight rounds with Young Campi of the North End. Another eight-session affair will find Young Geary of Boston opposing Mick Madonna of Lexington.

* * *

Eddie Shevlin, New England welterweight champion, plans to resume training tomorrow for his ten-round bout with Dave Shade, which will be staged at Mechanics Building on Saturday night, February 3. The first few days of Shevlin's training will consist of road work, and he does not wish to endanger his wrenched side until there is no possibility of a recurrence of the trouble. Meanwhile Shade is doing light work in New York. The Arena Club announces that the reservations secured for Monday night will still be good for February 3.

* * *

A few weeks ago Charley Cardio was finding it rather difficult to secure booking for Red Chapman, world's junior featherweight champion. Today Cardio has so many matches in view for Chapman he is wondering how his protege can fill all the dates. Chapman is billed to box Lou Paluso for the Arena Club; the Fenway A. A. has the champion signed with Abe Friedman, the Armory A. A. would like to pit Reo against Chick Suggs or Mickey Travers, while clubs in New York, Newark and throughout New England are clamoring for the services of our latest ring sensation. Other than Eddie Shevlin, Chapman is the best boxing attraction in New England.

* * *

Chapman, a Jew, is managed by Cardio, an Italian. A very good combination. Incidentally, Chapman's real name is Moe Kaplan.

* * *

It is reported that a Boston club is negotiating for a match between Harry Greb and George Robinson. A Fall River club would also like to stage such a contest, but it would appear that such an important match should come to this city.

Young Kloby says his comeback campaign was prompted by Mickey Walker's declaration he would give all-comers a shot at the world's welterweight championship. We understand that Walker would have no serious objections to battling Kloby in Boston. Mickey figures he can knock out any fighter he can hit. And he doesn't believe he would experience much trouble in getting a sock at Kloby.

HOME RUN SLUGGER WILLIAMS HOLDOUT

St. Louis, Jan. 23.—Kenneth Williams, who led the American League sluggers last year with thirty-nine home runs, is a holdout, Williams wants a substantial increase in his 1923 contract and if he doesn't get it, he threatens to quit.

Jack Conway Picks Taylor and Ryan to Win Bouts

The Armory A. A. jinx is batting once more for Jack Conway. The Boston American's expert has picked the winners of all boxing and wrestling matches staged in Boston this year with the exception of the Triple A's offering.

"But just because a bird has been knocked over a couple of times is no reason he should go down again," says Jack. "So I want the world to know that I am picking Jack Taylor, a real fighter, to win over Battling McCreary, another tough bird, in the Armory A. A. feature tonight.

"Frankie Ryan will win the semi-final from Tibbie Lawrey."

EIGHT COACHES FOR HARVARD OARSMEN

If the number of coaches and amount of veteran material counts for anything, Harvard should have a fast varsity crew. For the Crimson will have nine coaches and only one of the men who rowed against Yale last June has been graduated.

Dr. Heber Howe has announced his plans for the crews and Howe will be "director of rowing." Frank Muller will coach the first two varsity crews. Bill Haines will have charge of the 150-pound crew, as all the colleges will go in for 150-pound crew racing this year. Harvard, Yale and Princeton will have a triangular race of that type on the Charles.

Bert Haines will have charge of the first three freshman eights. Edward J. Brown, Harvard '95, of Dorchester, will have control of the sophomore, senior and junior crews.

The first annual intercollegiate sculling regatta will be held on the Schuylkill river, May 26. Ed Wachter will coach the scullers, 151 is the basketball coach.

There will be three freshman dormitory coaches, A. W. Moffat, 14, W. Ware, '03, and the third to be selected.

The schedule has been shortened. Only three races are slated for the Crimson navy. Pennsylvania and Technology have been dropped from the list.

CHARLEY MANTY IS WINNER OVER SUGGS

New Bedford, Jan. 23.—Charley Manty, New Bedford's latest ring sensation, danced and jabbed his way to victory over Chick Suggs of Newport, before the largest crowd to see a fight here in six years. He won the decision that carried with it the New England featherweight championship. The bout was close but the edge was with the challenger. Manty was given a rousing reception as he left the ring from the hundreds of Portuguese fans who once rooted for Frankie Britt, the new champion's instructor.

Tony Thomas, of this city, outpointed Johnny Mack of Fall River in a rugged eight-round semi-final. Thomas held the upper hand all the way.

Black Panther at Triple A

Jack Dempsey Says Taylor Packs a Real Punch

"Jack Taylor is one of the heaviest punchers in the heavyweight division!"

"This boy will be heard from before long," continued the tiger of the heavyweight division.

Boston and New England fans will receive an opportunity to see this heavy-hitting youth in action at the Armory Club tonight.

Taylor is twenty-four years old, five feet ten and a half inches tall, while he weighs 175 pounds.

He has engaged in sixty bouts and won them all.

Tom O'Rourke is hopeful Jack develops into a second Joe Walcott. You can't blame Tom. Another Walcott would make a million dollars in the ring nowadays.

JACK DEMPSEY RUSHES EAST FOR A FIGHT

By THOMAS L. CUMMISKEY.

New York, Jan. 23.—The sulky shadow of Jack Dempsey falls athwart the skyscrapers. Jack is coming to town again. Out in Chicago Dempsey naively, it would seem, declared that the sooner he got here the quicker it would be possible to arrange a fight with one of several aspirants. Who can it be?

"Gibbons has no business in the same ring with Dempsey," says Chairman Muldoon of the New York Boxing Commission.

Muldoon says Jess Willard is too old and fat, and that Bill Brennan doesn't figure at all. As for Harry Wills, whose challenge was accepted months ago, that is a mystery.

Dempsey may have hopes of a fight with Willard in New Jersey, where Tex Rickard has his 90,000 Arena, a wooden bowl that will not last forever. But New Jersey and New York are in a working agreement. Muldoon's power may be waning.

There seems to be a strong undercurrent of belief, however, that Dempsey and Willard will meet in Jersey next June or July. Inasmuch as all signs say Chairman Muldoon will continue as chairman, only a radical breach between New York and New Jersey can allow such a fight.

There is talk that Dempsey wants more than $200,000 guarantee than Rickard is said to have offered for a fight with Willard. It's reported, too, that Rickard has a sanction for such a bout from the New Jersey authorities, but all this is only talk and rumor—at present, at least.

The other day Paddy Mullins, manager of Wills, was asked when Wills and Dempsey might meet. To which he made answer: "Our day will come."

SEARS AND COX IN TUSSLE AT LYNN

Al Sears of East Boston and Jimmy Cox, who has been lingering in Worcester, will collide in the feature bout at the Casino A. C. of Lynn tonight. The boys are well matched and should furnish a lively tilt. The distance will be ten rounds.

There will also be three eights, Johnny Dellos of Springfield will meet Kid Lee of Lynn, Buddy Clark of Salem will face Young Blake of Boston, while Buncn O'Neil and Frankie Frisoni, both of Lynn, will swap blows.

Dempsey's best chance for a scrap seems abroad, and Joe Beckett looks to be the man. A European tour, before and after his little workout with Beckett would suit Jack. Certain moneyed Englishmen may put up enough coin.

Middlesex to Play Milton

The Middlesex School hockey sextet has booked a game with Milton Academy on February 3.

TIGERS SIGN UP SCHOOLBOY ATHLETE

By FRED G. LANE.

The announcement made by the Detroit Club that the name of Leslie Burke had been added to the club's roster brings to a successful close the schoolboy career of one of the greatest athletes ever turned out at Lynn.

"Buck" Burke

But the English High School star could not withstand the flattering offer of the major league club, and ended his days in the schoolboy ranks when he signed on the dotted line.

Burke came into baseball prominence at Lynn in 1918. His first workout that Spring impressed Coach George Sexton, who even then saw the possibility of Burke becoming a great player some day.

He played all three infield positions. He led the North Shore League in batting and fielding from the first day he donned his uniform.

John Morrisey, manager of the Cornet Club of Lynn, corralled his services and made him the regular second baseman of that club.

From then his deeds were heralded far and wide, and major league scouts gave him consideration. He made a good impression with them, as evident from the number of offers made to him.

George Sisler of the Browns, in a barnstorming trip, visited the Shoe City and on seeing Burke perform about the keystone sack, reported him as a find to the St. Louis officials and they made a bid for his services. The White Sox, Red Sox and the Athletics also made him offers.

In his career, Burke brought honor to the Lynn High School on the diamond, gridiron and track. He was considered the best fullback in the North Shore League for three years. On the track team he added many points in the dash events.

There was talk that Burke would play second base for Cleo O'Donnell's Holy Cross team.

* * *

Judging from the results of the running events held at the Armory among Hyde Park, West Roxbury and East Boston, it looked as though Hyde Park will carry off the championship of the District High School League.

Coach Daly's lads lead the procession with a total of 51 against 33 for West Roxbury and 28 for East Boston, which last year won the championship.

The field events will be held at the West Roxbury gymnasium this afternoon. It is evident that the 160 lads who represent Hyde Park this year will carry off the majority of points scored and annex their first victory of the track season.

* * *

A track team is being organized at Dean Academy, the first to represent the school in years. The entry was secured by Headmaster Edward Downer by chance of the Massachusetts Prep school meet to be held at the Armory on March 3.

* * *

Commerce High's hockey team is cutting a figure in scholastic ranks. The team won two games and tied one in the Boston High School League. It is the first year that hockey has been sanctioned by the school authorities.

PRINCETON HAS 29 GAMES ON SCHEDULE

Princeton, N. J., Jan. 23.—The Princeton baseball team has twenty-nine games scheduled for the forthcoming season. The season will open at home March 28 with the Villa Nova team, and two games will be played every week until the annual commencement contest with Yale on June 16.

The schedule includes, as usual, plans for three extra games made necessary by the possibility of ties in the Harvard, Yale, Princeton triangular series. Both Yale and Harvard will be met twice on the home-and-home plan, and in case of a tie in the first series with Harvard, the playoff will be staged in Boston on June 6. In case of no tie in the Yale-Harvard series, the Tigers will meet the Elis in New York on June 23, and in case Yale and Harvard tie, the Tigers will meet Yale in New York on June 26.

The schedule follows:

March 26—Villa Nova.
March 30—Johns Hopkins at Baltimore.
March 31—Georgetown at Washington.
April 2—Fordham.
April 5—Lehigh.

$1,500 a Month Star Plays for the Celtics Tonight

PLAN OF SEVEN WEEKS OF RACING

Bangor, Jan. 23.—Plans now maturing for the establishment of a Southern Maine fairs racing circuit contemplate a series of meetings beginning at Bangor the week of August 13, and continuing at Waterville week of August 20, Lewiston week of September 3, South Paris week of September 9, and ending at Gorham week of September 16.

Such a schedule would be of great advantage to owners, leading up as it does to Rochester, N. H., the week of September 23, and Brockton the week of September 30—seven consecutive weeks of racing. Bangor to Brockton, with short ships.

It is expected that the project will be indorsed at the Maine Fairs Association in Lewiston this week and dates and all other details settled.

At the session on Friday an effort will be made to arrange fair dates without conflict and to establish uniform conditions for races. It is expected that the membership campaign will result in additions to the present list of thirteen: Eastern Maine State Fair, Bangor; Central Maine State Fair, Waterville; Northern Maine Fair, Presque Isle; Maine State Fair, Lewiston; Houlton Agricultural Association, Houlton; Franklin County Fair, Farmington; Somerset County Fair, Skowhegan; Sagadahoc County Fair, Topsham; Caribou Trotting Park Association, Caribou; Cumberland County Fair, Gorham; Four-County Fair, Pittsfield; Machias and Cherryfield fairs.

WORLD'S SERIES BATTLE INTERESTS FANS

Boston will see a World's Series basketball struggle tonight. The Champion Original Celtics of New York will defend their title against the Boston Whirlwinds, New England champions, at Mechanics Building, in the biggest game played in Boston in years.

In addition to the championship game, the Pere Marquette K. of C. team of South Boston will clash with the Shawmut Council of Roxbury.

It is expected that the biggest crowd that ever witnessed a basketball game in this city will be on hand. Not for two years have the Celtics played here and the fans are anxious to get another glimpse of the champions.

All the stars of the Celtics, including Johnny Beckman, Nat Holman, Horse Haggerty, Chris Leonard and Johnny Barry, will play.

The Whirlwinds will use the same lineup that has defeated all New England title contenders this season.

Chris Leonard

College and school coaches have taken great interest in the game, and they will have their teams on hand to get a line on the style of game played by the champions.

The Celtics consider the clash tonight the hardest game of their schedule. They expect a nip and tuck struggle, as the Whirlwinds already have defeated some of the best teams in New York.

NEARLY 1,000 BOYS AND GIRLS ENTER FOR THE GOLD SKATES

RARE RACING CERTAIN AT BIG ICE DERBY

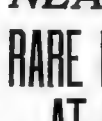
By CHARLES E. PARKER.

...ial heats next Saturday, and semi-final and final heats one week from Saturday, all to be conducted at Franklin Field, Dorchester, is the program for Greater Boston's First Annual Ice Skating Derby—the GOLD SKATES RACES—and only an unkind act from the weather man can interefere in delaying the greatest Winter sports undertaking ever attempted in New England.



With the entries which were received up to midnight last night—the official closing time—the total number of boys and girls and young men and young women who have signified their intentions of competing, reached nearly 1,000, and that rare racing will be the order both in the trials and in the semi-finals and finals seems certain.

Nearly 300 are entered in the event for boys under 14 years of age.

More than 200 are entered in the event for boys 14 to 16 years.

More than 100 are entered in the event for boys 16 to 18 years.

Nearly 200 are entered in the Greater Boston half-mile championship, for young men over 18.

Nearly thirty are entered in the event for girls under fourteen

Nearly forty are entered in the event for girls fourteen to sixteen

More than forty are entered in the event for girls sixteen to eighteen

Nearly forty are entered in the Greater Boston girls' half-mile championship for young women over eighteen.

It is because of this large entry list that the trial heats only, can be conducted on next Saturday. And it will require the entire day to give every skater his or her chance to qualify for the semi-final and final heats.

Boys Under Fourteen Must Report at 9:30 Saturday

Thus it has been arranged, weather permitting, that all boys entered in the event for boys under fourteen, must report to the skating derby officials at 9:30 o'clock Saturday morning at Franklin Field. Their trials will start at that hour, and those who fail to respond, when their names are called, will lose their chance to qualify for the finals

One hour later—at 10:30 o'clock—those entered in the race for boys fourteen to sixteen, must be on hand and ready for their trial heats

The trial races in these two classes will be conducted in the morning, and the twenty or thirty best skaters in each class, will be named for the semi-final and final heats which will take place the following Saturday

Trial Classes for All Girl Classes in Afternoon

In the afternoon there will be the trial heats for all classes of girl skaters, and the remaining two classes of boy skaters

Girls under 14, will report for their trial races at 2:00 p. m.

Girls 14 to 16, will report at 2:15 o'clock.

Girls 16 to 18, will report at 2:30 o'clock.

Girls over 18, will report at 2:45 o'clock.

Boys 14 to 18, will report at 3:00 o'clock.

Boys over 18, will report at 4:00 o'clock.

And in each class the result of the trial heats will determine the skaters who will participate in the semi-finals and final heats.

The derby is sanctioned by the New England Skating Association, and all senior skaters holding registration cards in that association must show their cards before competing in the semi-final and final events.

Those not yet registered will be registered at the expense of the Boston American on the day the semi-final and final races are staged.

Sixteen Prizes for those in the Finals

The sixteen prizes, to be awarded, to those who finish first and second in the finals are:

GREB DEFEATS SHADE IN 12 ROUNDS

By Universal Service

Jersey City, N. J., Jan. 23—Harry Greb, Pittsburgh windmill, went around and around with a flock of gloves in his twelve round bout with Billy Shade, at Lafayette A. C. tonight and the popular boy by a wide margin.

The only knockdown of the fight came in the seventh round, when Shade, in a wise attempt to...[illegible] crown of that eyes from [illegible] of the Pittsburger. It was a [illegible] decision as...[illegible] barred in New [illegible] as the only way for Shade to...[illegible] have been [illegible]

On this whole, the fight was not what an awful lot, and was very, only in spots.

In the seventh round Greb caught Shade with a heavy left to the jaw and the California kid took one of his [illegible] staggers. He was up however, before Referee Harry Ertle could begin to count.

The rest of the time it was the windmill stuff of Harry and the peppering away of Shade. Billy meant well, but the target, as usual with Greb, it was elusive and ever on the go.

Greb earned eight out of the twelve rounds, Shade slugged away to get two of them, and the other two were even. Greb scaled 168½ and Shade 166.

At no time was Greb in danger of a knockout. He hounded around all the time, and Shade could never get set.

PITTER—Where are you going with that suit?

Patter—Out to get my wife a new dress

Pitter—Then what's the idea of the heavy artillery?

Patter—Oh, the dressmaker held up my wife when she bought a gown last and I'm going to hold her up for a change

Pitter—But that's highway robbery.

Patter—I know, but that's no greater robbery than the prices they ask my wife makes me pay to get her back

Pitter—Isn't there a way to get in style [illegible] on an ordinary wage? [illegible] Looks like a problem

Patter—I don't know what they charge for [illegible] I'm just a working woman's husband

Pitter—Oh, that's no material to a dressmaker. It's how long you're nagging for the stuff

Patter—You're right. What an awful lot dopes do [illegible] I tell you, the other night when there were [illegible]

Pitter—Yeah, if a lot of men [illegible] would tell a few truths to their wives when they are [illegible]

Patter—How would you make that out?

Pitter—Well, sure, look like they're going to topple over with the hot dog water—no fooling

Patter—Tell me, is your wife all up to the minute in dress?

Pitter—No, she's always a couple of hours behind, and she has to do that to get up early in the a.m. out of the gown before it's out of style.

Patter—Then she's a modest woman.

Pitter—I can't say that she looks hardly modest in some of 'em

Patter—What are we men to do with wives who demand so many dresses?

Pitter—You again try trading 'em for a second-hand flivver

Patter—I know, but my wife what needed do you think I ought to be able to get in a trade

Pitter—Knowing my wife, I think you ought to get a 1901 model

STERLOPTICON views — all the rage

An' how yer used to curl up on a Sunday afternoon in a plush chair in the parlor an' look at views of the Pyramids, scenes in Iceland and views of the tropics through the stereopticon thingamajig.

An' outside it was snowin' an' the snow was pilin' up on the winder sills an' then night would come an' the stove would be glowin' red through the isin' glass an' yer Ma would spoil it all by lightin' the lamp on the table just as yer was lavin' wunderful day dreams o' fairies an' palaces built of chocolate creams an' gum drops.

Yer sent a girl a valentine an' paid a whole nickel for it.

An' it was a lacy creation beautiful to behold an' had on it the most wonderful sentiment an' a picture of Cupid with a shattered heart, an' yer wrote on it in yer very best hand "Guess" an' put a big question mark after it.

An' yer bummed the stamp to mail it with from yer father an' worried all night for fear it might get lost in the mail an' yer nickel go to waste.

Yer got yer first pair o' rubber boots an' what nice tinkly noises the buckles made when yer walked an' yer had fleece lined special socks to wear inside 'em so's yer feet wouldn't be cold an' yer could get through all the drifts, but had to shovel the snow from in front of the house when it stormed.

Yer could get a great big sour pickle for a penny an' the only problem was what to do with what yer hadn't eaten when it was time to go into school an' yer'd wrap it in a newspaper an' forget all about it till yer felt somethin' wet an' then you'd eat it in school behind a copy desk.

When yer had a bag o' candy an' the teacher caught yer eatin' it an' made yer walk up an' throw it in the waste basket an' how yer wished her was the janitor so's yer could reclaim it.

HIS WIFE'S FRIENDS

A Story in Which a Husband Went Wrong and a Wife of Whom He Thought He Ought to Be Ashamed Turned the Tables Completely

By Ruth Logan

JOHN had [illegible] gotten what [illegible] had said about [illegible] A man's enough girl but [illegible] can't understand how a man of [illegible] educated and so [illegible]

Prior to [illegible] remark John Nutting thought Miriam was the most perfect woman a man ever selected to love, but the power of suggestion is mighty and discontent followed closely on the heels of the older Mrs. Nutting's remark.

"I don't think I would be more [illegible] of [illegible] than [illegible] is said with an air of kindness. Now for example last night when the Brookes were here you said I should worry what people think. Are you more interested in me than what I think of myself?"

"Certainly I said that. That's the way I feel. I have always done the right thing as I see it and if I do not meet with the approval of the ultra critical I can't help it. Perhaps if they knew what I might do if they did their silly antics, as to some thing they aren't they'd see them selves in another light."

Miriam Landley had not been a child of wealth, but her mother had instilled in her those graces and courtesies that are becoming in a young girl. Her father had left her penniless but with a great [illegible] against big headedness and [illegible] things went for nothing with her, however after his wonderful regal mother passed from mind I opinion.

"Why don't you ask the Wildings out," suggested Mrs. [illegible] when they had been [illegible] several months [illegible] thought so much of her I was certain you'd have a good time by before this.

She Leaves Him

John hesitated. He did not like to admit that he was afraid to subject his wife to the [illegible] eye of Jane Wilding. The Wildings were a family of some importance in the [illegible] and that they would put up with his choice rather than hesitate to present Miriam to them.

"Because you are the prettiest girl the Mrs. Wildings have ever expected to meet. You don't be afraid, my dear, but you are the prettiest girl."

"Oh I'm not afraid now you see. Good night, dear. I am so interested in you, darling. I can see [illegible] Freud and the Einstein theory."

"Yes that is all right, but [illegible] but do you know anything about them."

"If you aren't satisfied with me I can go away," retorted Miriam and because John didn't think she meant it he said nothing and left her for the office.

When he returned Miriam had gone. Her trunks and bags were not to be found. Her note simply [illegible]

I always contended that it was more important to me what I thought of folks than what they thought of me."

On the heels of the Wild legs telephoned John and asked him if he was going to be home that night. He had to receive them.

"And, John," said Jane Wilding pleasantly when she came, "I have heard all over town what a clever, natural little woman Mrs. Nutting is. I am so sorry you haven't seemed to want us around, but of course a honeymoon is a [illegible] and we will ask you some [illegible]"

Mrs. [illegible] Wilding has gone away for a visit explained John. I expect her back—er—here."

Mrs Wildings even met her husband's [illegible] and act to me as if there were some trouble. Now, I am a great deal older. Perhaps you would take me into your confidence."

John spoke reluctantly and as he told Mrs. Wilding the story of their unhappiness she smiled. "I can't [illegible] John, the fine hand of a mother who thinks her son is too good for any woman. Now, for instance we have right now with us at the Homestead a little woman in the same predicament."

John Listened

"Dark men are always [illegible] of those they really love. This woman wants her to appear [illegible] and since he knows [illegible] it's really that he pretends not to have her around at all. [illegible]

As [illegible] seemed to the kindly Mrs. Wilding that [illegible] might to feel [illegible] I hard [illegible] Why, I don't [illegible] I'm [illegible] They were so very [illegible]

I think you are right, Mrs. Wilding. If I knew where to send Miriam—

THE PRIDE OF PALOMAR By PETER B. KYNE

An Engrossing Story of Southern California by the Author of "Kindred of the Dust"

START THIS NEW STORY TODAY

The story opens on the Rancho Palomar, an extensive tract in Southern California. Old Don Miguel Farrel, alone on the heavily mortgaged rancho with only his last faithful retainer, Pablo Artelan, and the latter's expansive wife, receives a telegram from the War Department at Washington announcing the death in battle in Siberia of his only son, "Don Mike." The shock kills him. Don Mike arrives and finds a family of Parkers there, including a beautiful daughter, Kay. Mr. Parker is scheming to get the ranch and sell it to the Japanese. Don Mike asks him to bid on it and then refuses to sell. Kay gives Bill Conway money to go on building a dam on the ranch. She becomes jealous of a girl neighbor of Don Mike's.

It is a Cosmopolitan Production, direction of Frank Borzage, and featuring Forrest Stanley and Marjorie Daw. It is released as a Paramount picture.

BOTH Farrel and her father had favored her with brief, sharp, suspicious glances. "Who was telling you?" the latter demanded.

"Senor Bill Conway."

"He ought to know better than to discuss the Japanese problem with you," Farrel complained, and her father nodded vigorous assent. Kay tilted her adorable nose at them.

"How delightful to have one's intelligence underrated by mere men," she retorted.

"Did Bill Conway indicate the direction of the tide of emigration from La Questa?" Farrel asked craftily, still unwilling to admit anything. The girl smiled at him, then leaning close she crooned for his ear alone:

"She's sleeping in the valley,
The valley,
The valley,
She's sleeping in the valley,
And the mocking bird is singing
Where he lies.

"Are you glad?" he blurted eagerly. She nodded and thrilled as she noted the smug little smile of approval and complete understanding that crept over his dark face like the shadow of clouds in the San Gregorio. Mrs. Parker was riding in the front seat with the chauffeur and Kay sat between her father and Don Mike in the tonneau. His hand dropped carelessly on her lap now, as he made a pretense of pulling the auto robe up around her; with quick stealth he caught her little finger and pressed it hurriedly, then dropped it as if the contact had burned him; whereat the girl realized that he was a man of few words, but—

"Dear old idiot," she thought. "If he ever fails in love he'll pay his court like a schoolboy."

"By the way, sir," Farrel spoke suddenly, turning to John Parker, "I would like very much to have your advice in the matter of an investment. I will have about ninety thousand dollars on hand as soon as I sell these cattle I've sounded up, and until I can add to this sum sufficient to lift the mortgage you hold, it scarcely seems prudent to permit my funds to repose in the First National Bank of El Toro without drawing interest."

"We'll give you two and one-half per cent. on the account, Farrel."

"Not enough. I want it to earn six or seven per cent. and it occurred to me that I might invest it in some good securities which I could dispose of at a moment's notice, whenever I needed the money. The possibility of a profit on the deal has even occurred to me."

Parker smiled humorously. "And you come to me for advice? Why, boy, I'm your financial enemy."

"My dear Mr. Parker, I am unalterably opposed to you on the Japanese colonization scheme and I shall do my best to rob you of the profit you plan to make at my expense, but personally I find you a singularly agreeable man. I know you will never resign a business advantage, but, on the other hand, I think that if I ask you for advice as to a profitable investment for my pitiful little fortune, you will not be base enough to advise me to my financial detriment. I trust you. Am I not banking with your bank?"

"Thank you, Farrel, for that vote of confidence. You possess a truly sporting attitude in business affairs and I like you for it; I like any man who can take his beating and smile. Yes, I am willing to advise an investment. I know of a dozen splendid securities that I can conscientiously recommend as a safe investment, although, in the event of the inevitable settlement that must follow the war and our national orgy of extravagance and high prices, I advise you frankly to wait awhile before taking on any securities. You cannot afford to absorb the inevitable shrinkage in the values of all commodities when the show-down comes. However, there is a new issue of South Coast Power Company first mortgage bonds that can be bought now to yield eight per cent. and I should be very much inclined to take a chance on them, Farrel. The debentures of the power corporations in this State are about the best I know of."

Quite Right

"I think you are quite right, sir," Farrel agreed. "Eventually the South Coast Company is bound to divide with the Pacific Company control of the power business of the State. I dare say that in the fullness of time the South Coast people will arrange a merger with the Central California Power Company."

"Perhaps. The Central California company is under-financed and not particularly well managed, Farrel. I think it is, potentially, an excellent property, but its bonds have been rather depressed for a long time."

Farrel nodded his understanding. "Thank you for your advice, sir. When I am ready will your bank be good enough to arrange the purchase of the South Coast bonds for me?"

"Certainly. Happy to oblige you, Farrel. But do not be in too great a hurry. You may lose more in the shrinkage of values if you buy now than you would make in interest."

"I shall be guided by your advice, sir. You are very kind."

"By the way," Parker continued, with a deprecatory smile, "I haven't entered suit against you in the matter of that foreclosure. I didn't desire to annoy you while you were in hospital and you've been busy on the range ever since. When can I induce you to submit to a process server?"

"This afternoon will suit me, Mr. Parker."

"I'll gladly wait awhile longer, if you can give me any tangible assurance of your ability to meet the mortgage."

"I cannot do that today, sir, although I may be able to do so if you will defer action for three days."

Parker nodded and the conversation languished. The car had climbed out of the San Gregorio and was winding swiftly along the ridge of La Questa, affording to the Parkers a panorama of mountain, hill, valley and sea so startling in its vastness and its rugged beauty that Don Mike realized his guests had been silenced as much by awe as by their desire to avoid a painful and unprofitable conversation.

Suddenly they swung wide around a turn and saw, two thousand feet below them, La Questa Valley. The chauffeur parked the car on the outside of the turn to give his passengers a long, unobstructed view.

"Little Japanese farms."

"There must be a thousand of them," Farrel observed.

"That means not less than five thousand Japanese, Mr. Parker. It means that literally a slice of Japan has been transplanted in La Questa Valley, perhaps the fairest and most fruitful valley in the fairest and most fruitful county in the fairest and most fruitful country God ever made. And it is lost to white men."

Keeping Land

"Serves them right. Why didn't they retain their lands?"

"Why doesn't water run up hill? A few Japs came in and leased or bought lands which we Californians suspected a 'yellow peril.' They paid good prices to inefficient white farmers who were glad to get out at a price in excess of what any white man could afford to pay. After we passed our land law in 1913 white men continued to buy the lands for a corporation owned by Japanese with white dummy directors, or a majority of the stock of the corporation ostensibly owned by white men. Thousands of patriotic Californians have sold their farms to Japanese without knowing it. The law provides that a Japanese cannot lease land longer than three years, so when their leases expire they conform to our foolish law by merely shifting the tenants from one farm to the other. Eventually so many Japs settled in the valley that the white farmers, unable to secure white labor, unable to trust Japanese labor, unable to endure Japanese neighbors or to enter into Japanese social life, weary of paying taxes to support schools for the education of Japanese children, weary of daily contact with loyable, unreliable and unassimilable aliens, sold or leased their farms in order to escape into a white neighborhood.

"I presume, Mr. Parker, that nobody can realize the impossibility of withstanding this yellow flood except those who have been overwhelmed by it. We humanitarians of a later day gaze with gentle sympathy upon the spectacle of a noble and primeval race like the Iroquois Indian or Indiana dying before the advance of our Anglo-Saxon civilization, but with characteristic Anglo-Saxon inconsistency and stupidity we are quite loth to feel sorry for ourselves, doomed to death before the advance of a Mongolian civilization unless we put a stop to it—forcibly and immediately."

"Let us go down and see for ourselves," Mrs. Parker suggested.

Having reached the floor of the valley, at Farrel's suggestion they drove up one side of it and down the other. Motor-truck after motor-truck, laden with crated vegetables, passed them on the road, each truck driven by a Japanese, some of them wearing the peculiar bamboo hats of the Japanese coolie class.

Vegetable Farming

The valley was given over to vegetable farming and the fields were dotted with men, women and children squatting on their heels between the rows or bending over them in an attitude which they seemed able to maintain indefinitely, but which would have bruised the back of a white man.

"I know a white apologist for the Japanese who in a million pamphlets and from a thousand rostrums has cried that it is false that Japanese women labor in the fields," Farrel told his guests. "You have seen a thousand of them laboring in this valley. Hundreds of them have babies on their backs or set them to sleep on a gunnysack between the rows of vegetables. Here is a sixteen-year old girl struggling with a one-horse cultivator, while her sisters and her mother hold the horse and with five male Japs in the gentle art of hoeing potatoes.

"They live in wretched houses," Kay ventured to remark.

"Anything that will shelter a horse or a chicken is a palace to a Jap, Kay. The furnishings of their houses are few and crude. They rise in the morning, eat, labor, eat, and retire to sleep against another day of toil. They are all growing rich in this valley, but have you seen one of these aliens building a decent home, or laying out a flower garden. Do you see anything inspiring or elevating to our native due to the influence of such a race?"

A Schoolhouse

"Yonder is a schoolhouse," Mrs. Parker suggested. Let us visit it."

"The American flag floats over that little red schoolhouse, at any rate, Parker defended.

William halted the car in the schoolhouse yard and Farrel got out and walked to the schoolhouse door. An American schoolteacher, a girl of perhaps twenty, came to the door and met him, with an inquiring look. "May we come in?" Farrel pleaded. "I have some Eastern people with me and I wanted to show them the sort of Americans you are hired to teach."

She smiled ruefully. "I am just about to let them out for recess," she replied. "Your friends may remain in the car and draw their own conclusions."

"Thank you! Don Mike returned to the car. "They're coming out for recess," he confided. "Picture American citizens and citizenesses. Count 'em."

Twenty-two little Japanese boys and girls, three Mexican or Indian children and four of undoubted white parentage trooped out into the yard and gathered around the car, gazing curiously. The schoolteacher bade them run away and play and, in the role of hostess, approached the car. "I am Miss Owens," she announced, "and I teach this school because I have to—to—earn my living. It is scarcely a task over which one can enthuse, although I must admit that Japanese children are not unintelligent and their parents dress themselves and keep them clean."

THINKING OF SCHOOL

By LORETTO C. LYNCH

EACH year about this time thousands of school children begin to think about returning to school, and the mothers who have the welfare of these children at heart, are planning to have the kiddies resume school life under the best possible conditions.

For instance, many children are left behind in the grade because the home is not so arranged that the children have a quiet room, away from the chatter and distraction, where they can concentrate on their lessons.

The shops are showing neat little desks. These come in a variety of finishes and are not at all excessive in price. Next to this, one might choose a plain wood kitchen table with a drawer. Blotting paper may be tacked on top.

One family used an old chiffonier for the school kiddies' belongings. Each has a drawer. The proper books, pencils, etc., are selected from this drawer before retiring and consequently there is no scurrying about looking for books just before school time in the morning.

The mother should carefully look over the child's wardrobe. If there is something new to be purchased, realize that the child is growing and buy accordingly. Every school child needs a pair of street rubbers, a small umbrella, and if possible, a waterproof coat.

For some children, it is wiser to buy rubber boots and soft slippers to be worn in school after the boots are removed. Many children needlessly lose time from school because of lack of rubbers and the like when a little forethought on the part of the mother might avoid this.

There are some excellent lighting devices on the market and some one should be selected with due regard for the eyesight of the child who must study after sun down.

One electric shop is showing an adjustable light that may be placed on the head-board of the bed or on a table and so arranged that it shines over the left shoulder and on to the book.

A handkerchief is essential to proper breathing, and every mother should see that each child is provided with a clean handkerchief daily. These may be purchased at sale prices or may be made at home from any plain white material.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

When fruit juice is spilled upon a blouse or table linen, at once sprinkle the stain with dry salt—it prevents a permanent stain.

Never put custard over a cold sweet before it is ready to be brought in to table, as the custard will get a thick, stale appearance.

FOR WEAR IN SOUTH

—By Rita Stuyvesant—

THIS is the season when the smart set wend their way southward with beautiful clothes for warm, sunny climates. One may have a fair idea of what will be worn during the early Spring and Summer months up here by observing just what pleases the fancy of the fashionable woman going South.

There is a great demand for all white costumes, which are beautiful and flattering.

White basket cloth makes an excellent sports skirt, fringed at the bottom, and of the wrap-around model. With this is worn a light-weight angora sweater, with collar and cuffs of fine handkerchief and a soft but rakish sports hat, pulled on at a jaunty angle.

Among the other clothes in all white are stunning frocks of soft crepe silk for afternoon wear. Long and draped models vie with the shorter and more youthful effects, and a happy medium is introduced in the short frocks with long drapery or panels. Either one finds practically no sleeves at all or a flowing sleeve that reaches the wrist.

Lanvin green promises to be extremely popular for early Spring and Summer, and there are some exquisite little frocks and dinner gowns developed in this lovely shade. A sport suit of silk eponge is shown in this color, consisting of a circular skirt and a short box jacket, with roll collar, lined in citron linen. The jacket is piped with the citron linen, and there is a smart sports hat of the citron linen, too.

For dinner, who would not look attractive in a soft chiffon gown of Lanvin green with a girdle of rhinestone? The bodice is made over a camisole of satin, and is cut with oval neck, and is entirely without sleeves. The skirt is a full circular affair that dips gracefully on each side, hanging almost to the instep. The rhinestone girdle is looped about the figure and buckled at the front. No other trimming is necessary.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

Be Sure to Read Them to Your Children

By Blanche Silver

Betty Changes Her Mind

BETTY was a good little girl, but she had one serious fault. She dearly loved soup, but every time she ate it she made so much noise that her mamma had to scold her.

One day, when they had company, Betty made more noise than usual. Her mamma, very much ashamed, sent her away from the table.

Betty ran into the nursery, crawled into the big arm chair, and began to cry. Then a tiny hand touched her shoulder. Looking up, she saw Goocomeback, the little travel elfin.

"Too bad, little girl!" he said, sadly, shaking his head. "I've tried to help you, but it seems you always forget, and do the same thing over and over again."

"Too Bad, Little Girl!"

"I just can't help the noise," Betty sobbed. "I don't mean to do it, because Mother asked me not to, but the soup tastes so good, I do it without thinking. I wish I didn't." And the big tears rolled down her face.

"There, there, honey, don't cry any more." Goocomeback wiped his own eyes. He felt sorry for Betty. "I know what we'll do. We'll go and have dinner with a little friend of mine, and you can make as much noise over your soup as you want to, and no one will ask a word to you."

And before Betty could ask any questions she was whisked out of the nursery door, through the hall, and across the yard. Over the mountains and seas they sailed so fast that Betty couldn't get breath enough even to ask where they were going.

When they once more dropped to the ground, Betty stood before a queer little house.

"Oh, I know, we're in Japan, as sure as I'm alive," she laughed merrily. "Is this where we're going to have dinner?"

Just then a dear little Japanese girl came running out to greet Goocomeback.

"San-toje," he laughed, shaking the little girl's fist, "we're starved to death after our long sail. Have you anything to eat?"

"Indeed we have," she replied, taking both Goocomeback and Betty by the hand. "Our dinner is just ready, and you know you're welcome."

She led them into the house, and a dear little maid brought in a tiny table and set it down in front of Betty and the elfin. Then and to sit tailor fashion on the floor.

Betty smiled when she was handed her bowl of soup.

"Now," Goocomeback whispered in her ear, "make all the noise you want to. The more noise you make in the drinking the more the Japanese like it. For it proves to them that you like the soup. In Japan it's good manners."

Before Betty could even taste her soup the noise was so great that she let her bowl down and declared she wasn't the least bit hungry.

Goocomeback winked merrily and finished his soup. But Betty's bowl remained filled. She could hardly eat the rest of the food brought her, and was glad when the meal was over and they were on their way home.

"You see how it would be if everyone at your table did that," Goocomeback laughed. "No one could eat."

Betty never said a word. She was cured. That was the last time her mamma ever had to correct her about the way she ate her soup.

ETIQUETTE POINTERS

—By Ann Adams—

MY Dear Miss Adams:

My friends criticize me for keeping a young man waiting when he calls to take me to a dance. I have been under the impression that it is the nice thing to do and considered bad taste to be waiting when he arrives.

ANXIOUS.

ANSWER: There is a happy medium which should guide your conduct in this matter. It was considered modest for a young girl not to appear too enthusiastic over a social affair in a generation gone by. The pretty custom today is for the young lady to be ready when the young man calls, but to wait in another room until he has entered the parlor. Do not keep him waiting, but make a graceful entrance when he is seated.

RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

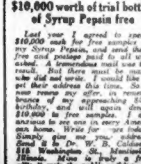
By Aline Wichaetis

TIME was when folks computed wealth in terms of bonds and stocks. They judged a man's financial health by cash or business blocks. They learned how much John Smith might own of each commodity, and then they classed him as A 1 or put him down in G. Large diamond rings and sealskin coats once placed you for the town; now often gear like this denotes you've paid one dollar down. Today folks show no wild desire to count your treasured roll; instead they eagerly inquire, "Do, have you any coal?" And if no coal bin's empty nor your fuel supply is low, you're left deserted in the slough for chaps with Anthracite. The chap with Anthracite's O. K., a monarch at this date, his jests might come from Caesar's day, but folks would term them great. Full many a smooth and wily liar will flatter him and fawn to get to sit beside his fire till all his coal is gone. To own fine rings and diadems was once esteemed a feat; but now men only covet gems that furnish them some heat.

What I Have Learned in 47 Years Practice



From a recent portrait of DR. W. B. CALDWELL Born Rhobyville, Mo., 1859

I HAVE been watching the results of constipation for 47 years, since I began the practice of medicine back in 1875. I am now 63 years old, and though from time to time the medical profession makes some wonderfully interesting experiments and tests, the fundamentals of cause and relief in this particular ailment are unchanged.

But the people take greater interest today in their health, in diet, exercise and the drinking of water. Constipation, however, will occur from time to time no matter how one tries to avoid it. Of next importance, then, is how to treat it when it comes. I believe in getting at cause in nature as possible, hence my remedy for constipation, known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a mild vegetable compound. It is made of Egyptian senna and pepsin with agreeable aromatics. Children will not willingly take bitter things. Syrup Pepsin is pleasant-tasting, and youngsters love it. It does not gripe. Thousands of mothers have written me to that effect.

Over 10 million bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin are now sold every year, and it is the most widely bought family laxative in the world. I say family laxative because all in the family can use it with safety. It is mild enough for the infant in arms, effective in the most chronic constipation of an adult. The formula is on every package.

Recently there has been a new wave of drastic physics. Calomel, a mercurial that salivates and loosens teeth, has been revived; salt waters and powders that draw needed constituents from the blood; coal tar disguised in candy form that causes skin eruptions. In a practice of 47 years I have never seen any reason for their use when a medicine like Syrup Pepsin will empty the bowels just as promptly, more cleanly and gently, without griping, and without shock to the system.

Keep free from constipation! It lowers your strength 28 per cent, hardens the arteries and brings on premature old age. No need of a day go by without a bowel movement. Do not sit and hope but go to the drug store and get a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It is a generous-size bottle. Take a teaspoonful that night and by morning you will be well. The cost is only about a cent a dose. Use Syrup Pepsin for yourself and members of the family in constipation, biliousness, sour and crampy stomach, pales, indigestion, loss of appetite or sleep, and to break up fevers and colds. Always have a bottle in the house, and observe these three rules of health: Keep the head cool, the feet warm, the bowels open.

Railroads and Specialties Lead Upward Activity in Strong New York Market

FORBES' VIEWS ON FINANCE

By B. C. Forbes

I entered a typical American workshop. Scores and scores of grimy workmen were busy. The work was not exactly of the kid glove kind. The throbbing machines caused a lot of din.

The work calls for men of intelligence. They draw better than average pay. Most of them are native born Americans.

* * *

I talked with one of them, a man of sixty, perhaps. Knowing my line of work, he launched into a tirade against existing conditions, and I've since been wondering whether some of the things he said may not represent the ideas and the feelings of a rapidly increasing number of toilers.

* * *

When he began to rave, I suggested that he and the other workers in his line had had their pay raised very substantially within the last few years.

Omitting a plentiful sprinkling of swear words, here is his retort:

"Yes, but I'm no better than I was before. I'm worse off. I've got to pay twice as much for rent. Coal is very dear—when you can get it. They soak you right and left for food. The price of shoes is a shame. Clothing is dear and it's mostly shoddy.

"No, sir, I tell you I'm worse off than I was when we were getting less wages."

He kept right on working meanwhile.

* * *

"What do you think is the trouble?" I asked.

Wiping his sweaty forehead with the back of a sweaty hand, he stopped working, evidently feeling that he couldn't do justice to the subject and work at the same time. Here is the pith of what he let out, with terrific emphasis:

* * *

"The government wants to butt into everybody's affairs and interfere with everybody nowadays. They're running stark mad with their appointing of commissions of every —— kind to nose into everybody's affairs. The politicians just love to create commission after commission, of course must have its members drawing fat salaries. Its well paid secretary and its gang of snoopers. The politicians pick the fattest jobs for themselves and give the ones they don't want themselves to their friends or their friends' sons and daughters. Every last one of these —— commissions means just so many tax eaters and just so many more loafers who don't create a blamed thing. They're nothing but parasites. We have to feed them and carry them on our backs.

* * *

"I wonder what they'll interfere with next? Think of interfering with me and my glass of beer! This prohibition is a joke. There isn't prohibition at all for the rich ginks. They can get all they want —— good stuff, too.

"But poor devils like myself that can't pay fancy prices for a drink have to go without or run the risk of swallowing some stuff that will blind you or kill you right off."

* * *

He paused for breath rather than for want of fresh words. So I had a chance to remark that he evidently did not believe in the government going in this, that and the next thing.

Instantly, he exploded: "I do believe in government ownership! I mean I believe in the government running things if can run at a profit. I'm in favor of the government making money and then reducing taxes.

* * *

"If the government could give me my coal at a decent price, then I'm for the government owning every coal mine in the country.

"What I'm against is the government interfering with business and me and everything and everybody and piling up billions of dollars of costs every year to give millions of tax-eaters sinecures. They're multiplying faster than rabbits. It is high time to call a halt. If things go on as they have been going, we'll have more tax eaters than workers, than tax-earners."

READING, WITH LEHIGH, HEADS CARRIERS

Rails and specialties led upward activity in a strong New York market today with money renewing at 4 per cent. Reading shared with Lehigh the initial leadership in the carriers.

Rails up around a point or more included Lehigh Valley, Baltimore & Ohio, Reading and New York Central. The coal carriers were aided by belief there will be no mine strike in the Spring.

Opening prices were irregular but in the main higher. Short covering penalties were apparent in some of the leaders which had been depressed Monday. Baldwin rallying a point and Studebaker and Crucible fractionally. Fisher Body advanced 4. Initial demand centered in oils, motors, independent steels and a few miscellaneous issues.

New high records for 1923 were established by Owens Bottle, Chesapeake and Ohio, Pacific Petroleum and Piggly-Wiggly, the gains ranging from ½ to 2 points. Chrysler extended its gain to 1¾ and Steel and Tube preferred to 2 points. There was a resumption of Montana buying in the Food Shares. Corn Products, Postum Cereal and Beechnut all moving to higher ground.

Gains of a point each were scored by General Asphalt, American Woolen, Brown Shoe, Sears Roebuck and Famous Players, while substantial fractional advances were recorded by Pan American A and B, California Petroleum, Canadian Pacific, Chandler and United Fruit.

There were a few spots, notably Wilson & Company, which reacted 1¼ points, and Northern Pacific, Reynolds Spring and Willys Overland preferred, off ½ to ¾.

Foreign exchanges opened higher.

Connor Stores Active and Higher in Boston

Connor Stores was active and over a point higher, a feature of trading today on the Boston Stock Exchange. Pacific Mills responded to maintenance of old dividend after distribution of 100 per cent. stock bonus, lifting a point.

There were also point or more gains in Boston & Maine Class D, Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway adjustments and Eastern Steamship.

Calumet & Arizona yielded a point at 54. Fractional gains came in Massachusetts Gas, United Shoe, Ventura Oil, Swift & Co., and American Telephone.

There were minor setbacks for Edison, Anaconda, Waldorf and Carson Hill.

Most active on the Boston Curb were Keurke-Croesus, up four at 29; Verde King, unchanged at 51; Verde Mines, off three at 65; and Southwest Miami (part paid), off 37½ at 75.

Boston Stocks

| Stocks | Open | High | Low | Latest |

Boston Notes

ISLAND Creek Coal's latest production is at rate of 216,000 tons a month, whereas since the shopmen's strike last July 1, Island Creek has not succeeded in getting out more than 175,000 to 180,000 tons of coal a month.

INTERNATIONAL Paper's output is normally two-thirds newsprint and the balance chiefly high grade papers. The 1922 figures show newsprint 62 per cent. of the total, so that production of higher grade papers are slightly above normal.

ANACONDA's purchase of American Brass has proved wisdom of those who conceived the trade. In 1922 the brass company shipped out over 400,000,000 pounds of finished products. This is about double the shipment in 1921.

WITH CHILE Copper made available for Eastern brass manufacturers, much of expensive across-the-country haul can be saved, as product can be shipped by water to Atlantic receiving ports at cost of $4 a ton against $16.50 a ton now paid to get the far Western copper to like points.

BEVERLY will receive proposals until 2 p. m. January 24 for purchase of $50,000 of high school loan 4 per cent. bonds, dated August 1, 1922, and payable in each of years 1923 to 1949 inclusive.

CONSOLIDATED Textile, under new American Woolen interests' management and with cotton goods still apparently short all over the world, ought to be worthy of consideration around present prices.

UNITED Fruit's 1922 report proves to be distinctly better than expected, though the $2 extra dividend of mid-October reflected an accession of earning power that had been lacking in the Spring and Summer months.

GREENFIELD Tap & Die, outside of its domestic business, has customers in 64 of the 80 countries of the world.

FOOTWEAR division of United States Rubber Co., at Woonsocket, R. I., and Millsville, has increased wages of 1,000 employes effective Feb. 1. Raise offers are not made in June, 1921.

HORNBLOWER & Weeks—Important stocks are reaching lower levels gradually and we look for this sagging market to continue.

COTTON FUTURES HAVE SMART RALLY

New York cotton futures had a smart rally. January was up 18 points at 28.05, March up 23 at 28.35, May up 21 at 28.15, and July up 23 at 28.28.

REYNOLDS SPRING.

To W. R., Faneuil—Reynolds Spring is rather unseasoned for investment, but that isn't saying it would not prove a good buy on any fair setback. Stockholders at annual meeting February 14 will be asked to vote on proposition of issuing and selling 73,500 shares of additional common stock at $12 a share to provide funds for further buildings, equipments and working capital. First offering will be made to holders of record March 1 in proportion of one additional share for each share held. Right to purchase expires March 16.

President Wiley R. Reynolds says: "We have been doing business continuously for over fourteen years with some, and during the last year we have not lost a single large automobile customer but have added several to our list. The list as as follows:

"Pierce-Arrow, Chevrolet, Buick, Reo, Oakland, Olds, Dodge, Ford, Franklin, Earl, Kissel Car Co., Haynes, Fisher Body Corporation of Missouri, Fisher Body Corporation of Detroit, Fisher Body Corporation of Ohio, Briggs Manufacturing Co. (closed Ford cars), Seaman Body Corporation (closed Nash and Lafayette cars), J. I. Case Threshing Machine Co., Pullman Palace Car Co., Fordson Tractor Co., Canadian Pacific Railway, Montgomery, Ward & Co., Canadian Car & Foundry Co., Limited, General Motors Truck Co., etc.

"In February, 1922, we occupied our new two-story, fireproof building, and have been able to greatly reduce our operating expenses on account of the savings involved. Both factories were equipped in 1922 with Sprinkler system, which greatly reduced our rate of fire insurance.

"In May of last year our Common stock was listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

"During 1922 all of the Preferred "A" stockholders received their regular dividends in cash and the Preferred "B" stockholders received their back dividends in cash and are all paid in full through December 31, 1922. During the year 827,800 par value of the Preferred "A" stock was purchased and cancelled by the company.

"As general business conditions, particularly in the automobile trade, are improving very rapidly we expect that your company will do a much larger business in 1923 than last year and that our net profits for this year should greatly exceed those made in 1922."

To A. P. M., Mason street.—Kennecott shares appear to me to be in strong position for an advance with continuance of bull market. Dividend yield at present prices is high, company's interests are in low-cost properties. Principal holdings are in these groups:

A.—Original Kennecott holdings in Alaska, comprising the high-grade Bonanza and Jumbo properties and the lower grade Beatson mine.

B.—619,580 shares of Utah Copper, comprising 38 per cent. of that company's capitalization; Utah Copper owns 51 per cent. of Nevada Consolidated.

D.—A 51 per cent. interest in the Mother Lode property in Alaska.

Corporation also owns entire outstanding issue of bonds and stocks of the Copper River & Northwestern Railway Co., and controlling interest in the Alaska Steamship Company.

DENIES DANGER OF INFLATION OF PRICES

All acute danger of another period of price inflation is passed and there will be no buying panic in 1923. Even the national bankruptcy of Germany cannot now very seriously disturb American business, according to William Haynes, publisher of Drug & Chemical Markets, the New York, recognized authority on industrial conditions.

"Last year when prices of raw materials advanced before the prices of finished goods had been proportionately deflated, the threat of an artificial price boom was very plain," Mr. Haynes said.

"Manufacturers have, however, contracted reasonably for raw materials for this year's delivery and since January 1 the advancing markets for commodities have eased up considerably. The necessary adjustments between the prices of hides and shoes; a bale of cotton and a yard of cloth; wheat and bread will continue in orderly manner.

"Because chemicals enter into every manufactured article — from a silk ribbon to a steel rail, conditions in the chemical industry indicate the state of American prosperity, and while the prices of many chemicals because of the sharp deflation of all basic commodities, is still too low, nevertheless chemical advances will not be enough to justify higher prices to the ultimate consumers.

"The retailers who held up prices to the public two years ago have squared themselves during the past six months by helping to hold prices down. The permanent solution of the economic problems of Europe can only come through the financial and industrial rehabilitation of Central Europe and Russia. At present Germany is the centre of a world-wide infection. The deliberately depreciated mark is the core of its ulcer.

"To declare Germany internationally bankrupt may be the only possible operation to save the patient. Whatever the political outcome of the French occupation may be, the economic effects promise to be helpful."

Wall St. Gossip

TENNESSEE Copper is talked of for fifty-cent dividend very shortly.

JONES' Tea pool is reported acquiring stock with expectations of concern's absorbing another chain of grocery stores.

SOUTHERN Pacific still looks as if it were selling too low.

SINCE the first of the year, car and locomotive orders have been coming in at a rate exceeding the most optimistic forecasts.

EQUIPMENT and locomotive companies now have sufficient business on their books to warrant the statement that they will operate at as much capacity as possible under present labor conditions for the next twelve months.

HART, Schaffner & Marx, for year ended November 30, 1922, show net profits of $2,141,041, equivalent, after preferred dividends, to $12.88 a share earned on common. This compares with net profits of $10.42 a share in 1921.

PRESIDENT KURRIE of Chicago, Indianapolis & Louisville, says: "Monon's gross for 1922 was the largest in its history, totaling about $16,000,000. Business is showing gradual improvement.

RECEIVER'S sales of assets of independent Sugar Co. of Marine City, Mich., has been adjourned to February 3.

DETROIT Edison Co. for 1922 reports $3,613,164 after depreciation and interest, equivalent to $10.41 a share on $34,654,900 stock, against $2,850,170, or $10.17 a share on $28,021,700 stock in 1921.

CHILDS CO. reports for year ended November 30, 1922, $1,534,448 after depreciation and taxes, equivalent after preferred dividends to $20.53 a share on $4,000,000 common, against $1,540,793, or $30.84, in previous year.

COCA-COLA CO. last year earned about twice its present dividend requirements of $8,760,000. These consist of $8 a share on 500,000 shares of common, requiring $4,000,000, and preferred dividend, calling for $700,000.

KANSAS & Gulf Co. stockholders in special meeting approved merger with Schick Oil & Refining Co. and Southern Petroleum Co., forming the Peer Oil Corporation.

BUILDING STEEL SALES AT PEAK

Sales of structural steel jumped to 1,929,400 tons in 1922, representing a volume of business which was the highest in ten years, according to a study just completed by the Department of Commerce.

Bookings for the year amounted to 84.3 per cent. of the estimated practical capacity of the mills, the study shows.

Bookings for December, for which reports have just been received, went up to 146,000 tons, an advance of 24,000 tons over the preceding month.

The December business indicates a continuance during 1923 of the nation-wide building boom that began last year, Commerce Department experts say.

April was the month of record bookings during 1922, the official report shows. In that month the volume of business amounted to 89.9 per cent. of the maximum capacity of

What Is Coming in Europe?

War, Worse Than Ever, Perhaps

Copyright, 1923, Star Company

Conditions in Germany and in Europe generally go from bad to very much worse. The first French experiment failed, because the German miners won't work under compulsion. The Berlin government forbids the companies to deliver coal, forbids the railroads to carry it.

The French now will court-martial the German industrial magnates and confiscate the coal. That is a recent announcement.

Some real crisis seems about due, a climax of some kind.

No prophecy as to what will happen has value. The French may succeed in their undertaking, which, as Paris frankly confesses, is not so much the collecting of money as the breaking up of the German Empire.

France may take the richest German industrial territory, see that the workmen are fed, drive the German Republic into bankruptcy and thus then make an end of the imperial domain built up by Bismarck.

On the other hand, the unknown Russian power in the north may construct out of the German fragments another great Bolshevist domain. Together Russia and Germany may make an end of the French financial republic and force Bolshevism upon that country. No one knows.

The next war will be bitter and murderous, such as will make the last seem like a children's quarrel.

Lloyd George tells you the French have ready over a thousand bombing machines, each able to do as much as a dozen machines in the last war.

When the next war comes there will be merciless bombing of many non-combatants on both sides. Factories will be treated as forts, since they produce war material, and the effort to destroy them from the air will destroy thousands of women and children in hundreds of cities.

As wars come more close together, they become more revengeful and bitter.

We did not start those European wars, we are not responsible for them. The people that live in this country came away from them, away from that kind of government.

Our business is TO STAY AWAY FROM THEM, and endeavor to keep at least one corner of the world fit for white people to live in, after they finish butchering each other in Europe.

To Make Religion Strong Attack It

That's Been Proved 1,000 Times

"Catholic priests in Mexico," says the New York Times, "have planned to stage a monster procession and open-air mass at the dedication of a shrine on a spot supposed to be the geographical centre of Mexico. The Mexican government forbids holding religious ceremonies in the open air."

The surest way to make a religion stronger is to interfere with it. Absolute freedom for all religions, and all ideas, as long as they do not interfere with others, is the wise program.

Cheap American Labor

Northern Cotton Interests Oppose National Law That Would Protect New England Industries

The Pacific Mills Company of Lawrence, Mass., is proposing to erect another plant in South Carolina at a cost of $2,000,000 for the purpose of finishing and bleaching. The company already owns four mills in the same State. We presume that these are mills in which coarser cotton products are manufactured that require less skilled labor.

President T. J. McMahon of the United Textile Workers of America tells us that most of the cotton factories in the South have been established and are owned by cotton interests in the North. This is why we see so little inclination on the part of these cotton interests in national legislation which will prevent the competition of cheap labor in the South with the skilled and high-priced labor in the North.

When these Northern cotton interests ask for a protective tariff they always do it upon the pretence that it is protecting high-priced American labor from the cheap European labor. But it makes a big difference, apparently, whether the competition of high-priced American labor is with the cheap labor which they themselves hire or cheap labor in some foreign manufacturing plant. But it makes no difference to the skilled American workmen who have to meet this competition.

We earnestly hope that the business interests and the representatives of the workingmen in New England will join in determined effort either to make the South raise the conditions of labor or refrain from selling the products of their cheap labor in States where the conditions of labor are better.

There is nothing more disgusting than to hear our New England manufacturers plead the low cost of labor in the South against a demand by New England workmen for better conditions when at the same time these manufacturers are secretly opposing any action to have a national law which would protect New England industries from cheap American labor in other cities.

Chamber's Winter Outing

Sign of Virility of Nation When Men and Women of Middle Age Enjoy Outdoor Sports

Five hundred members of the Chamber of Commerce on special trains went to the snow-clad hills of New Hampshire for the enjoyment of a four-day's outing of Winter sports. This is splendid. May the number of successful business men who through middle age continue to enjoy healthy outdoor sports constantly increase. It is an assurance of the continued virility of the nation.

There is in the robustness of the body something which gives a robust, healthy point of view. Republics never die until their citizens have become enervated. Then they cease to be able to repel the enemy from their frontiers or the enemy from their citadel. It is an enervated people who like to see bull-fights and it is a vigorous people who maintain an interest in sports in which they all can participate.

The women, too, of late years, in strange but happy coincidence with their coming into political equality with men, have developed a greater interest in athletic sports, and with that increasing interest they have adopted a style of clothing consistent with the enjoyment of sports. May their skirts never grow longer!

SENTENCED TO STAY HOME

By Dr. Charles Fleischer

A DANIEL come to judgment in a New York up-State town had to deal with the case of a man accused of being a "Peeping Tom."

Some folks said they had caught him while he was peeping in at a window. The prisoner said he was seeking a friend. But the police testified that they had arrested him when engaged in a similar search last Winter.

So the judge fined him $15 and told the peeper if he did not stay home and away from temptation the next ninety nights, he would serve ninety days in the county jail.

Sentenced to ninety nights at home—how terrible! To many sympathetic souls such a sentence must sound contrary to the Constitutional prohibition of cruel and unusual punishment.

Ninety successive nights at home—how would You like to be condemned to such torture?

And, really, you know you have earned it, for you too are in a sense a Peeping Tom—or a Jazzing Lizzie.

Most of us, during most of our leisure, are out and about, looking for pleasure not of our making, seeking for satisfactions provided by others.

Condemn yourself to associate with yourself—and you will be delighted with your undeveloped resources. Read and think—and the greatest of companions, thinkers and thoughts, are yours for entertainment and profit.

And—who knows—you may even find your own family more interesting than the comrade of the moment.

Red-Headed Ones the Best

LONDON, Jan. 23.—The ancient prejudice against red or "ginger" hair received a sad blow when Professor Karl Pearson, lecturing to London school teachers, stated that his conclusion, based on the study of thousands of boys and girls in kindergarten, public and private schools, was that today red-headed boys and girls were the most conscientious, athletic and popular.

Woman's Party

Editor Boston American:

As there seems to be a very general misunderstanding relative to the program of the National Woman's Party in this State I am writing to give you the facts, which, I am sure, you will be glad to print.

The Massachusetts Equal Rights Bill leaves nothing to the imagination, being specific in every particular, according to the requirements of the Massachusetts Code. The bill comprises thirty-two amendments to the General Laws.

In brief outline, the bill seeks to establish in law the following points raising the status of women to that of men:

Jury service; equality of pay with men for equal service and ability in State and county offices and positions; equal eligibility with men for civil service examinations; equal pay with men for equal work and ability in their capacity for government of schools and teaching; raising the age at which a woman may sign away her right in the conveyance of land to twenty-one; complete equal guardianship in minor children; repeal of the provision that the marriage of a woman who is a fiduciary discharges her bondsman; raising the age at which a woman may marry without the consent of her parents or guardian to twenty-one; the right of husband and wife to contract with each other and to sue and be sued; the right of husband and wife to convey land including mortgages; the removal of the liability of the husband for his wife's torts; the repeal of the requirement of a married woman to file a business certificate; equal rights of a wife with her husband to suits for personal injuries, loss of services and consortium in case of injuries to the other, and equal rights of the wife with the husband in the earnings and services of minor children and in suits for loss of such services in case of injury to the child; the right of a married woman to choose her own domicile, the same as any other person.

The removal of these inequalities is all in line with the advancement, not alone of women, but of civilization. The fact that some of these laws are rarely if ever enforced, is no excuse for their retention on the statute books.

KATHERINE A. MOREY,
State Chairman, Massachusetts Branch, National Woman's Party.

Stroller to Exchange

I have a gray reed stroller, large, with reed hood and adjustable backrest, that can be used for a young baby. Would like to exchange same for small stroller to be used for baby two to three years old. It is in fairly good condition, and I am willing to exchange even if the other is not in good condition, as I now have to take it up and down stairs every time I go out.

Wants Child

Editor Helping Hand:

Can you find me a little ten-months-old girl baby, with fair hair and blue eyes? We have just buried our baby a short time ago, and my little boy keeps asking my wife all day when little sister is coming home, for he is too young to understand, and it makes it very heart-breaking for my wife. The child is so ill with fretting he won't eat his meals and the doctor says the only chance is to adopt a little girl.

Crow Indians in New A. L. Post

LODGE GRASS, M..., Jan. 23.—What is believed to be the only American Legion post composed entirely of Indians has been organized here and application forwarded to national headquarters at Indianapolis for a charter.

The post will be restricted to Indians.

It has been named the Joseph Chief-at-Night Post, in honor of the only member of the Crow tribe of Indians who died in military service during the World War.

It is estimated that there are about thirty Indians on the Crow reservation who are eligible to become members.

Joseph Chief-at-Night died at the Presidio, San Francisco, while he was in service. His body was returned to the home of his tribesmen and was buried beside those of Custer's men in the National Cemetery on the Custer battlefield, near here.

A COOKED GOOSE LAYS NO GOLDEN EGGS

By Herbert Kaufman

FRANCE, the martinet, continues to lose the sympathy spent upon France, the martyr.

Jeanne D'Arc fades from the memory as Napoleon's imperious spirit rides into the news.

The Ruhr adventure proceeds in the face of international frowns. M. Poincare is advised to read and heed this morning's papers.

Our own press tells him that we delivered Germany to judgment, not revenge. We did not abet or finance a conquest. Nor did we deny the right of might on one bank of the Rhine to help establish it on the other.

Prussia yielded her sword to Foch, but Pershing's blow knocked it from the Kaiser's hand.

We, too, signed the treaty under which France assumes authority, single-handed, for confiscation.

We plucked none of the fruits of war; we want no European territory. But we do want our European markets. Our manufacturers and farmers need them. Prosperity requires their capacity. France has thrown those markets into disorder.

Payment on Account

Germany has not met indemnities, but she has rendered France, on account, 20,000 square miles of self-sustaining Togoland, she has returned 100,000 square miles of the Congo, she has delivered for exploitation the rich Saar Valley, she has yielded up Alsace and Lorraine with a potash output of 5,000,000 annual tons, oil fields of 5,000,000 tons content and iron mines from which France last year took 21,000,000 tons of ore.

Bankruptcy lawyers would assure M. Poincare that he has done very well so far. Their experience attests to the sad unwisdom of depriving debtors the wherewithal for rehabilitation.

Mr. Untermyer Criticized the Law

It hardly seems fair to make a man pay the cost of obtaining his own. If losing defendants had to pay plaintiffs' attorneys and compensate them for the value of time lost in courtrooms, court calendars, as he points out, wouldn't be chronically behind schedule.

Mr. Untermyer won his spurs as a corporation lawyer. In his early days he helped to make big ventures bigger. Now he specializes in designing harness to keep it in check.

Mussolini Disappoints the Socialists

Mussolini, the amazing young man in control of Italy, on the other hand, is not designing checkreins, but whips to speed the lagging faith of Italian business. He has quite recovered from an earlier fever for Socialism. Now he doesn't think that capital should be suppressed. He aims to give both capital and labor confidence by keeping them within such bounds that neither can break the other.

"Everybody in Italy," he says, "was tired of uncertainty—lawlessness, continued unemployment and constant threats of upheaval. The people were willing to support anyone who could promise stability."

Why not borrow Signor Mussolini a while and let him take a try at the coal situation and several other wrangles that seem beyond the immediate capacity of nearer statesmen?

Why Mr. Hughes May Resign

Speaking of statesmen, rumors come out of Washington that Secretary Hughes may resign. Certain Senators who resent the distance maintained between the Capitol and the State Department, would like to narrow the gap with a Premier more appreciative of the importance of the upper chamber.

Since it takes two to make a quarrel, Mr. Hughes' grievance is supposed to be congressional coldness to his policies. Congress is certainly cold to the policy that keeps Boyden and other unofficial observers active in European affairs. And quite hot about it besides.

GARRETT P. SERVISS ON THE PRIMATE ORDER

Man's Leadership Over Apes and Monkeys Due to Growth of Brain

By Garrett P. Serviss

The grounds on which man is placed in the order of the primates, the highest order under the class mammals, are purely grounds of likeness and identity. Man goes into that category for the very simple reason that that is where he belongs in the category of locomotive vehicles.

There exists on earth a large and varied group of backboned animals, belonging to the type of those who produce their young alive and nourish them from their breasts during infancy, of which group the animal called man is a member.

There are two sorts of mammals; those whose young are produced from eggs, or are not fully developed when born, and those whose young are born fully developed (except for subsequent growth), having, before birth, been directly nourished by the blood of the mother. The last are called placental mammals, and the primates are the highest order of the placental mammals.

The primates themselves are of two sorts, viz., the anthropoides (to which men has the honor of giving his name, though the Greek anthropos, meaning "man"), and the lemuroides, represented by the monkey-like animals called lemurs, with which we have here nothing to do.

We spot man at the head of the anthropoid primates, and his position of leadership there is due solely to the extraordinary development that the brain, a common possession of all his anthropoid rivals, has undergone in him. Yet man's brain is distinguishable from the brains of apes and monkeys not by its structural plan but only by its greater growth and coincident greater complexity. It is a more perfect machine than theirs, but fundamentally of the same kind, working on similar principles.

Look at some of the identification marks that man bears as a member of the primates. He has five fingers and five toes, and that is a general characteristic of the whole order.

He has flattened nails on his fingers and toes, and that is a general characteristic of the whole order.

His eye-orbits are so arranged on each side of the face that he looks forward with both eyes, and that is a general characteristic of the whole order.

In short, if it were not for the amazing brain development that he has experienced, together with the numerous bodily adaptations that have resulted, man would today probably find his highest enjoyment in swinging and leaping among the branches of the trees, throwing cocoanuts down at disturbing quadrupeds, and coddling in his little hairy head no deeper thought than how to outwit a rival for the hand of the fairest monkey maiden of the grove, to whom if won he might prove a more devoted mate than some of his present-day descendants, for J. Arthur Thomson has affirmed that "some monkeys are faithfully monogamous," which is said to be true of all men.
